Roosevelt Urges Security For "Forgotten People"

PRESIDENT DEDICATES HOSPITAL

Tells War Veterans To Put "First Things First" In Address In Virginia
IGNORES BONUS ISSUE
Urges Subordination Without Mentioning Issue; Country Is Better Off

ROANOKE, Va., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Security for the forgotten people of the nation is the foremost aim of the New Deal, President Roosevelt said here today, in calling on the country's war veterans to "put first things first."

In a speech at dedication of the new $1,700,000 veterans hospital, he revived the issue of the "forgotten man," stoutly urged veterans to subordinate their demands for further aid, and at the same time assured business that relief expenditures must not jeopardize "the good credit of the government."

He viewed the new Roanoke hospital as "a symbol of the broader policy that the government is seeking to give aid not only to veterans but also to hundreds of thousands of other citizens—men and women and children—who, handicapped by environment or by circumstance, lack today what reasonable people call the essentials of modern civilization."

The president reminded veterans that thousands of "underprivileged" lacked the hospital facilities that veterans have.

One cause of the depression, he said, was the existence of "forgotten people" whom the government had failed to help on a national scale.

Constant Objective
"It must remain our constant objective to eliminate the causes of depression and the drags on prosperity," he said, "it will cost money to do this. In the spending of this money we must have due regard for the good credit of the government of the United States. That means that we cannot spend at once or in any given year all that we could usefully spend."

"I mentioned once upon a time that we must do this first: the care of the disabled, the sick, the destitute and the starving is the first thing." Thus without directly touching on the controversial soldiers' bonus issue, the president urged its subordination at this time.

He said he was "inclined to agree" with those who think the country is better off materially than a year ago.

Definite Drag
"Other people," he added, "who fail to think things through, forget that one because of the depression which we are beginning to leave behind, was the very existence of thousands of men, women and children who have been and continue to be a definite drag against the return of prosperity."

There is a growing realization, he said, that "any large or small group which lacks the elementary necessities of proper food, of decent housing, of adequate medical attention, of essential education, drag down the level as a country as a whole and retard its progress."

NEW STORM HEADED FOR PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 19.—(UP)—A new typhoon was reported headed today toward the Manila area which has not recovered from Monday's storm in which 76 persons lost their lives and damage to crops and property was estimated at $3,207,500.

At 2 p. m. the second typhoon of the week was located at 15 degrees east latitude, 14 degrees north longitude, pointing toward the eastern end of Luzon island and Manila.

Four hours later the tropical storm was 270 miles east of Manila and was moving west by northwest.

Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy immediately telephoned American Red Cross officials at Tokyo and received assurance that additional help will be given the Philippines. He also was advised from Washington that the Red Cross is sending $25,000 for relief work.

POLL REVEALS "NEW DEAL" IS LOSING GROUND

Republicans Hopes Aroused By Literary Digest Straw Ballot

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Sharp backsliding of "New Deal" sentiment as indicated in a nationwide test poll of 65,000 straw voters aroused Republicans hopes today of smashing down Democratic congressional strength in the November election. But the poll offered no hope of overturning Democratic senate and house majorities.

Literary Digest poll figures gave the "New Deal" a slight fractional majority in the nation but in 17 states where there are 213 important contests for house seats, a sharp swing to majorities against the Roosevelt program was shown. In these political battle grounds Democratic control of the next house will be decided.

Poll Announced
The poll announced today was taken in the summer. It showed the New Deal and 49.93 against. A similar poll among the same 65,000 individuals gave in the early spring 69.63 per cent pro-New Deal, 30.37 against.

The referendum indicated a majority of straw votes in the following states opposed to the New Deal: Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Arizona and Wyoming. In 1933 only four of the 17, Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Vermont went for Hoover.

The poll showed Maine straw voters in July and August 61.77 per cent against Roosevelt policies, while in March and April they were 58.82 for the New Deal. Delaware, anti-New Deal in the spring, was 50-50 in the summer.

Doubtful States
In the 17 doubtful states, house seats are now divided: Democrats 12, Republicans 59, Vacant 2. The poll indicated that the Republican drive to capture the 55 seats they hope to win back will depend on Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, New York and Pennsylvania election results.

In nine of the 17 states, Republican senate seats are in jeopardy. Despite the poll in Ohio and New Jersey, vote getting proclivities of Democratic senatorial nominees will figure in the results. In Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Rhode Island, Republican senate seats seem to have the better chance for re-election. Democratic senators up for re-election in Arizona, Massachusetts and New York do not appear to have their chances upset by the poll. But Wyoming might upset Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney.

HAUPTMANN EXTRADITION IS FOUGHT IN APPELLATE COURT

21 PLANES HOP OFF SATURDAY ON LONG RACE

Three American Ships To Compete In London To Australia Contest

MILDENHALL, England, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Three American airplane crews, and 18 from other countries, were ready today for the start at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow of the greatest aerial race ever run—the MacRobertson International—from Mildenhall, in Suffolk northeast of London, to Melbourne, Australia.

At 45 second intervals the 21 planes will start for Baghdad, Mesopotamia, 2,553 miles away, the compulsory stopping place on the 11,300 mile air-line route to Melbourne. There are intermediate checking points, which also are permissible landing places, at Marseilles, Rome, Athens and Aleppo, Syria.

James A. and Amy Mollison, heroes of many record breaking flights, are to start first in their De Havilland Comet. Next will come the Americans Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn in a Boeing transport, followed by Col. James C. Fitzmaurice in the Irish sweepstakes entry, a Bellanca monoplane.

Eighth to start will be Jacqueline Cochran, former New York beauty parlor operative, and Wesley Smith of New York, in a Granville monoplane originally entered by Pangborn. After them will go John H. Wright and John Polando, Americans, in Wright's Lambert monoplane, "Baby Ruth," smallest plane in the race.

The Turner-Pangborn and Cochran-Smith planes are in the speed section of the race, for which the first prize is 10,000 pounds (about $140,000). Wright and Polando are in the handicap section, with allowances for weight, motor class, plane area, air speed and pay load. First prize in this section is 2,000 pounds (about $28,000).

The Mollisons, Turner and Pangborn, and Fitzmaurice, and first three starters, are among the favorites for the speed section, and all hope to lower by days the present England-Australia speed record of 6 days, 17 hours, 56 minutes.

SOUTHLAND CHEERED BY CLEARING SKIES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Cheered by clearing skies, Southern California today dug itself from the debris left by a 36-hour storm that cost at least four lives and property damage estimated at $200,000.

While property damage was slight in most urban centers, flood waters in the Montrose-La Cresenta foothill area left a costly toll of wrecked houses and roads as they receded. More than a hundred families in this district and in one section of Long Beach still were homeless.

The body of Donald Butterworth, 9, was recovered a mile below the spot where he fell into a drain. Three traffic fatalities in San Bernardino county were attributed directly to the storm.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 19.—(UP)—The federal government has no power to regulate under AAA supervision, a dairy concern operating entirely within a state, Judge Charles A. Dewey ruled today in federal court.

KANE, Pa., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Pennsylvania state police threw a cordon around northwest Pennsylvania today and asked the cooperation of New York state police in an attempt to apprehend a speeding motorist resembling Thomas H. Robinson Jr.

Hugh Johnson Wants Owls --And Chickens

MERCEDES, Tex., Oct. 19.—(UP)—The Mercedes Chamber of Commerce, always ready to oblige, placed an order for owls today, and sent hunters scouring the Rio Grande valley for the birds.

It was all because General Hugh S. Johnson announced he was coming to the valley "where the owls make love to the chickens."

Owls all gone, but chickens still here, the chamber wired the general.

"Must have owls," wired back Johnson.

So the owl hunt is on.

FEAR VIOLENCE UNLESS RELIEF GIVEN JOBLESS

Officials Believe Emergency Relief For Cold Weather Is Urgent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Emergency unemployment relief must be stepped up to meet a cold weather destitution peak and prevent violence in the United States this winter, responsible officials believed today.

Conviction that violence would accompany failure to care for the destitute is based on the opinion that men would seize food, clothing and perhaps shelter before they would starve or succumb to exposure in large numbers. Potentialities of violence are no different this winter than last.

Before relief plans are in final form a major decision must be made regarding pay scales on construction projects financed with government funds. State and federal PWA projects now pay workers the prevailing local union wage scale.

This wage policy is questioned by at least one of President Roosevelt's principal emergency relief advisors. United Press inquiry revealed this dissenter believes maximum employment from emergency construction spending should be sought by reducing wages below established union scales although not below subsistence levels. That would spread work. It also would entice organized labor.

President William A. Green of the A. F. of L. rejected such a suggestion three months ago in connection with housing administration projects.

Labor believes that policy would reduce wage levels generally.

In defense of the sub-union wage scale, it is argued that the most successful emergency project is the $1-a-day CCC. Organized labor condemned that pay schedule. But administration officials consider CCC to be working almost perfectly without hunting outside wage standards. There is no indication of general support for a sub-union wage scale policy.

HARBOR BOND BIDS REJECTED BY RFC

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—(UP)—The reconstruction finance corporation today refused to sell a $13,900 issue of harbor district bonds of Orange county, Calif., for the public works administration because bids were too low.

The issue was the only one of 18 offerings of municipal, county and state bonds, held by PWA as collateral for loans. They brought $3,457,652, netting a premium of $195,652.

RFC is offering the bonds to create a revolving cash fund for PWA. Thus far about $14,000,000 have been sold, which RFC chairman Jesse H. Jones said indicated a "strong market for good municipal securities."

Jones said he was confident the Orange county issue would be sold "soon" when more favorable bids are received.

REVEAL INSULT AND 'INSIDERS' MADE PROFITS

Surprise Witness Shows Two Companies Suffered Heavy Losses

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—(UP)—A former confidante of Samuel Insull today testified that the manipulations of a $147,000,000 stock pool brought fat profits for Insull and favored "insiders" but huge losses for two investment companies used as dumping grounds.

The witness was P. J. Fallon, former assistant treasurer of the Utilities Securities corporation. He was a surprise witness in the trial of Insull and 16 others on charges of swindling investors of $143,000,000.

The 74-year-old Insull, seated across Judge James H. Wilkerson's federal courtroom, glowered as Fallon answered questions put by Leslie E. Salter, government prosecutor.

Nearly 300 capitalists, including world-famous figures, were members of the syndicate, the government contended. Their names were not placed in the record.

They syndicate was formed late in 1929 to deal in the common and preferred stock of Middle West Utilities company, a key unit of the Insull empire, Fallon said.

"They wanted to keep the market from sagging," he said.

Although plans called for acquisition of $147,000,000 worth of Middle-West stock the market broke too soon and only $18,000,000 worth was purchased, he explained.

"It had been the plan to unload this stock on the market after the price had been boosted but this was impossible so it was sold to Corporation Securities and Insull Utilities Investments," Fallon testified.

"Did the members of the syndicate profit by this sale?" Salter asked.

"Yes," Fallon said. "They made a profit of about 25 per cent. The stock was unloaded at more than the market price."

Without selling the stock at a price higher than the market Insull and the members of the pool could not have realized a profit, he admitted.

The holdings of Corporation Securities, the government claims, were dangled before the public as "the jewels of the Insull empire" whereas they were worthless and the company was used merely as a "dumping ground" for securities acquired in running up profits for Insull and his co-defendants.

WOMAN'S SKELETON FOUND BY HUNTERS

FRESNO, Cal., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Authorities today sought to identify the skeleton of a middle aged woman, found by coyote hunters in a field west of here.

The woman, coroner's officials said, had been dead about three months and as yet no identification could be made from clothing scattered on the muddy ground. The body had been dismembered by coyotes.

No wounds were evident immediately, officials said. The skull was reported as being intact.

EVIDENCE TO BACK ALIBI GIVEN COURT

Attorneys For Suspect Appears Before Justices Of Appeal Body

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann today urged the appellate division of supreme court to halt extradition of the Lindbergh case suspect to New Jersey to face trial on charges of murder.

James M. Fawcett, counsel for Hauptmann, asked the appeals court to reverse the ruling of Supreme Court Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer that the extradition warrant is valid.

Fawcett also discussed new and disputed evidence purporting to support the suspect's plea that he was in New York on the day of the kidnapping.

If the court dismisses the appeal, Fawcett may seek to reopen the hearing in supreme court at which a writ of habeas corpus was denied Hauptmann.

Fawcett appeared before five justices of the division.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz of New Jersey, fighting the appeal, represented the state seeking to extradite the German carpenter.

He declined to comment upon the case but indicated he would make a statement after the hearing.

Justice Edward R. Finch, presiding, followed by his Associate Justices Edgar K. Morrell, James O'Malley, Francis Martin and Irwin Untermyer, ascended the bench at 2 p. m.

Hauptmann was not present.

New documentary evidence was introduced to prove that Bruno R. Hauptmann did not work at the Majestic apartments the day of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, as contended by two of his witnesses, was produced.

Reinold C. Gruelich, of Passaic, N. J., accountant for the Reliance Property Management, Inc., trustees for the Majestic apartments, appeared at the office of District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx with records showing Hauptmann started work at the apartments March 21, 1932. The baby was kidnapped March 1.

Edward F. Breslin, assistant district attorney, made the following announcement:

"The records we have gone over thus far show that Hauptmann did not work March 1. The records produced up here show he started work on March 21, and also show further that he worked only two days in April." The baby's body was found early in April.

The records were in contrast to statements of Joseph Furcht, construction engineer at the apartments, and E. V. Pesca, employment agency operator, who said Hauptmann started work the day of the kidnapping.

Three Democratic attorneys said they would appeal Superior Judge Frank C. Collier's order, stipulating that the defendants be notified only through publication of their names in the county's legal newspaper and through notices posted in the schools, newspaper offices and the county clerk's office.

Attorneys I. D. Brett, Leslie Kranz and John C. Packard, who appeared as "friends of the court," strongly protested this method on the ground that defendants would not learn of the action against them. Judge Collier ruled, however, that his method of service was the only practical one.

FIELD MARSHAL VON KLUCK IS CALLED TODAY

Commander Of First German Army In Marne Dies At Age Of 88

BERLIN, Oct. 19.—(UP)—Gen. Field Marshal Alexander von Kluck, of the German Imperial general staff, who commanded the first German army at the battle of the Marne and its advance on Paris, died today. He was 88.

Von Kluck was born May 20, 1846, at Munster. He took part in the Austro-Prussian war of 1870 and the Franco-Prussian war of 1870, in which he was twice wounded.

In 1906 he was promoted to the rank of general of infantry and at the outbreak of the World war was inspector general of the eighth army inspection.

He was placed in chief command of the first army of the west in the World war, and led his forces in the battles of Manneberg and St. Quentin and the advance on the Marne. At the battle of the Marne, the faulty disposition of the German forces in the line of battle and the success of the Allied offensive compelled Von Kluck to withdraw his army to the Aisne.

In March, 1915, he was wounded while visiting the front trenches and was placed on the retired list in October, 1916.

Death was attributed to senility.

Von Kluck commanded the first German army, which formed the right wing of the German drive in 1914, penetrating Belgium and outflanking the French and British troops.

The vanguard of his army actually sighted Paris before it was compelled to withdraw when, because of its own unprecedented speed, it lost contact with supporting German forces.

Von Kluck went into retirement in Berlin and played no part in the stirring post-war events in Germany.

Gold miners of the mother lode continued their quiet, peaceful picketing today as representatives of their union met with federal and state labor officials and attempted to reach a settlement.

Only pump men and engineers were permitted to continue working in the big gold mines of Amador county during the strike period. This precaution was taken to prevent the mines from being flooded.

The miners are demanding an increase of 50 cents a day in the wage scale of $4 and $4.50; better working conditions in the mines; union recognition and no discrimination against union men when the strike ended. They complained they were being worked nine hours a day and seven days a week, while state laws permit them to remain underground only eight hours, six days a week.

Wife Of Robinson Claims Federal Agents Double Crossed Her In Deal

Hunt For Abductor Moves Into East As Reports Received From Police

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19.—(UP)—Federal agents and police of 15 states, trailing the kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, threw a net over half the country today in the greatest man hunt since John Dillinger terrorized the Midwest.

An official here said new clues to the trail of Thomas H. Robinson Jr., former insane, asylum inmate sought for the crime, made it "possible" that he will be arrested within hours.

Investigators were certain that Robinson was in Springfield, O., yesterday morning. With a web of police and sheriff's officers spread over every highway in the state they believed he still is in that vicinity.

Agents of the federal bureau of investigation hurried to Russellville, O., at midnight to investigate a report that Robinson stopped in a restaurant there late last night. Russellville is about 70 miles south of Springfield, within a few hours' driving distance of a half dozen bridges over the Ohio river into Kentucky.

Agree On Identity
Four persons who agreed on identity of the suspect said he was about 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighed about 145 pounds, had dark hair and blue or gray eyes. The witness said he kept a cap pulled noticeably low over his eyes. The description tallies closely with the appearance of Robinson.

The search in Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania was directed by Melvin Purvis, the Chicago chief of federal agents who led Dillinger into a death trap.

Police teletype systems flashed a report that Delaware state police vainly had pursued three men, one of whom answered Robinson's description.

The car, a Ford V-8 sedan similar to that known to be carrying the fugitive on his flight, escaped into Pennsylvania.

Previously the car had been reported at Reading, Pa., and Wernersville, Pa.

Arrest Fades
An arrest at Wilmington, Del., which for a time promised to bring a climax to the daring kidnapping, faded today when a suspect established that he was not Robinson.

The swing of the search to the eastern seaboard started yesterday when an automobile, identified as Robinson's by means of fingerprints and Indiana license plates issued in his wife's name, was abandoned at Springfield, O.

A $5 bill, revealed by federal agents to have been part of the $40,000 ransom money carried by Robinson when he fled from a hideout in Indianapolis Tuesday, also was found at Springfield.

The kidnappers' father, T. H. Robinson Sr., was under arrest at Nashville, Tenn., on charges of aiding his son and the latter's wife in the kidnapping.

by the victim's millionaire husband, was at liberty under $25,000 bond pending a hearing on his removal to Louisville.

Recover $10 Bill
At Fort Wayne, Ind., police announced the recovery of a $10 bill from the ransom money, indicating Robinson might have swung northward in his drive from Indianapolis to Springfield.

Mrs. Robinson, apparently recovered from the hysteria which caused federal agents to place a constant guard over her cell in the fear she might attempt to end her life, maintained today that she had been "double-crossed" by the government agents.

She said she was instructed by the agents to deliver the $50,000 ransom to her husband in Indianapolis and that, previous to the request, she had no suspicion her 37-year-old mate was involved in the crime.

Her claim brought prompt denial from E. J. Connelly, department of justice investigator, and from J. Carlton Loser, county attorney general at Nashville.

William Stoll, brother-in-law of the kidnaper victim, appeared at the Liberty street jail today carrying a revolver and revealed that all the men of the wealthy family were armed.

"The newspapers have been calling us millionaires, and you never know what might happen," he said. "I'm called a millionaire and I can't even pay my grocery bill."

He appeared at the jail, the same in which Mrs. Robinson is held, to talk with Philip Hays, a former employee of the Stoll Oil refinery who is held on a statutory charge.

FAILS TO REGISTER: GETS JAIL TERM

Pleading guilty to violation of the county ordinance which requires felons to register in the county within 48 hours, John Amelin was given a six months suspended sentence in the Santa Ana justice court and ordered to leave the county.

Amelin was arrested on a warrant signed by Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean on May 13. Judge Kenneth Morrison set the suspension of the sentence for two years and ordered Amelin to be elsewhere during that time.

STATE O. E. S. ENDS SESSIONS TONIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19. — (UP)—California members of the order of Eastern Star attended concluding sessions of their annual convention today after selecting Coronado as their 1935 convention city and choosing a new slate of officers.

Mrs. Minnie V. Collins of San Francisco was to be inducted as worthy grand matron of the order at installation ceremonies which will close the convention tonight. She succeeds Mrs. Jessie Galbraith Morris.

HEAVY INCREASE IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT DEATHS CITED IN PLEA FOR LOCAL OPTION LAW

Strongly urging a "YES" vote on Amendment 13 at the November election to give residents of Santa Ana the right and opportunity to say whether or not they want the liquor traffic carried on in this city and advocating an adverse vote on Amendment 2 which would provide for the free and open sale of liquor in eating places, W. B. Martin, prominent local real estate broker and civic leader who is president of the Men's Community Bible class, spoke over KREG last night.

The lecture was one of a series sponsored by the Christian Citizenship Council.

Opening his lecture the speaker pointed out that by the laws of the state no community in the state has any right to make rules and regulations for the enforcement, licensing or in any way dealing with the liquor traffic.

"If you wish to prevent and do away with the free and open sale of intoxicating liquors in hotels, cafes and eating places," he urged, "vote 'NO' on proposition 2. If you believe that the citizens of Santa Ana have the right to say whether or not they want the sale and use of intoxicating liquors in the city, then you should vote 'YES' on number 13, which is the Local Option Proposition and provides that the citizens of any certain district within the state may decide whether or not they want saloons or liquor stores in their community and may regulate the sale of liquor as that community wishes.

"Whether or not you believe in prohibition, you certainly believe in the right of each community to regulate and oversee the conduct of business within its own borders. Why should Santa Ana, a dry town for many years, be forced to submit to the presence in our midst of 120 liquor stores, just because the wet towns of the north and the large metropolitan districts can outnumber us in the votes cast? We want the right to make our own ordinances regulating or prohibiting this traffic."

Martin outlined briefly the events leading up to the repeal of prohibition and pointing out that promises made by wets that the repeal would eliminate bootlegging, that there would be no saloons and that no liquor would be sold to minors, have been proven to be false. He quoted authorities to show that bootleggers are flourishing more than ever and that not only is liquor sold to minors now but is more easily obtained by them. He pointed to an incident here this week when a local liquor dealer was accused of selling liquor to young girls and boys.

He asked what the difference is between the 120 places in Santa Ana where intoxicating liquors are sold and saloons, declaring that the only difference is that there is little loitering in the present establishments and little drinking done on the premises.

Result Same
"However," he said, "what is the difference to you if you are injured by a drunken driver, whether he drank the liquor in the liquor store or on the sidewalk or in a car? The result is the same. A saloon, in my opinion, is a place where intoxicating liquor is sold."

"The chaotic situation under the present laws is seen in the fact that out of about 20 arrests made in Santa Ana by local police recently, two convictions were obtained and a single violator was punished. You certainly do not believe these 20 arrests were made by policemen if there was no unlawful sale of liquor?"

Discussing the promise of wet arrests that sale of liquor would bring a tremendous revenue to assist in cutting taxes, the speaker pointed out that the local city authorities have been faced with the public removal of a prominent jurist in Los Angeles from his bench because he was charged with being an inebriate. Judge Dawson of the Los Angeles municipal court states that drunkenness has increased by leaps and bounds since repeal and that most of his time is taken up in court in disposing of habitual drunkards. He said it would be more advisable to widen and deepen gutters and just roll the drunkards into them and so give law enforcement officers a chance to devote some of their time to the business of looking after criminals rather than spend their entire time in herding drunks.

The speaker told how futile it is to try to do anything about drunks, who are victims of a pernicious traffic.

Quotes Officer
"The following quotation is taken from a recent speech delivered by E. Raymond Cato last February. Mr. Cato, as you know, heads the traffic police of the state of California. 'For several weeks the California highway patrol has watched with growing concern the alarming rate of increase of California accidents in which drunken driving was involved. We must face these facts. Reports received by us for January indicated an increase of more than 11 per cent in fatalities involving drunken drivers compared with January of 1933. February figures appear to indicate an increase that is even greater. Our figures for 1933 show an appalling increase. Indeed, they show a 40 per cent increase in fatal accidents involving drunken driving and a 26 per cent increase in all types of accidents in which drinking played a part. We cannot disregard these figures. Therefore I call upon every citizen who believes in the enjoyment of personal liberty to assist us in stamping out this evil. It is the duty of every person who has been drinking intoxicating liquors or who expects to attend any sort of gathering, where excessive quantities of intoxicating liquors are consumed, to refrain from driving.'"

"Our own Captain Meehan, in a recent letter to the Santa Ana Register, confirms these sentiments and states that he did not include this item in his recent safety speech at the Santa Ana Bowl because of an oversight on his part and lack of time."

"Deputy Sheriff R. R. Lutes, in a recent address before the Orange County Men's brotherhood, said, 'Repeal has produced a tremendous increase in arrests on liquor violations. Drunkenness arrests at the jail jumped from 95 in the first three months in 1932; 80 for 1933, to 237 for the same period in 1934, an increase of 141 per cent over 1932. Drunken driving arrests advanced from 42 in 1932, and 35, in 1933, to 61 this year, an increase of 43 per cent over 1932 and 74 per cent over last year.' Los Angeles shows an increase of 95 per cent, Denver 116 per cent and so on down the line. Santa Ana showed an increase of 100 per cent for the month of September, just closed, over the same month in 1933."

"If it were possible to absolutely control the sale of liquor there might be some justification for it but experience has taught us that there is no successful method of liquor control. The only solution is to prohibit its manufacture and sale."

Text of Address
"In coming to Roanoke to take part in the dedication of the latest addition to our chain of veterans hospitals, I do not seek to enumerate or catalogue the many steps which have been taken by your federal government to care for its veterans of many wars. 'Most of you in this great audience are from this neighborhood and in the years to come the men who will accompany this hospital will be your friends and your neighbors. I commend them to your care.'"

"You see before you today a monument which is representative of the national policy of your government that its disabled and sick veterans shall be accorded the best treatment which medical and surgical science can supply. 'In a larger sense these buildings are a symbol of the broader policy that the government is seeking to give aid not only to veterans but also to thousands of other citizens—men, and women and children who, handicapped by environment or by circumstance, lack today what reasonable people call the essentials of modern civilization.'"

"For many years we have seen a constantly growing realization of the fact that any large or small group which lacks the elementary necessities of proper food, decent housing, or adequate medical attention, or essential education, drags down the level of the country as a whole and retards its progress. 'Forgotten People'—"

"In one sense these men and women and children are not forgotten people for the very good reason that we have known of their existence and appreciated their plight for many years. In another sense, however, they have been forgotten for it is only in recent years that government has undertaken to help them on a national scale. 'The further we go into our survey to find out who these people are and where they live, the more appalled I am by the magnitude of our task. Most of us know in general terms of the slum conditions which exist in many of our cities. Most of us know, from hearsay at least, of people who have lived for generations in back eddies of life. But we have failed to realize the existence of the underprivileged who are present and largely forgotten in practically every one of the fourty-eight states of the Union. 'The improvement of their hard lot is a definite obligation on all of our citizens and I am confident that the veterans of our American wars will be among the first to recognize this fact. 'The improvement of their hard lot compels our immediate exertions, not only because of the individual and human beings who suffer today, but, even more important to the future of America, because future generations of American citizens will become the descendants of those who are now in need. In this thought also the veterans of our wars will go along. 'Let it be well remembered that the hundreds of thousands of men and women and children to whom I have referred, scattered throughout our nation, have no splendid hospitals for their care, have no medical attention, such as we will provide here, have no good food and decent raiment such as will be provided in this veterans' home; have no opportunities for adequate education, and can but suffer the ill of their lives according to their own individual circumstances. 'Country Better Off 'You have heard it said that we must restore prosperity. You have heard some kind people say that the country is distinctly better off from a material point of view than it was last year. I am inclined to agree with them. Other people, who fail to think things through, forget that one cause of the depression which we are beginning to leave behind, was the very existence of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children who have been and continue to be a definite drag against the return of prosperity. 'It must remain our constant objective to eliminate the causes of depression and the drags on prosperity. It will cost money to do this. In the spending of this money we must have due regard for the good credit of the government of the United States. That means that we cannot spend at once or in any given year all that we could usefully spend. 'I mentioned once upon a time that we must do first things first; the care of the disabled, the sick, the destitute and the starving is the first thing. To this the veterans of American wars give their approval in agreement with the overwhelming majority of our other citizens. 'I make this statement in regard to the veterans of America not only because I am confident of their patriotism and their understanding of our national needs, but also for two other reasons. The first is that our federal government and our state governments have given to them many privileges not accorded to other citizens, and the other reason is that it has been amply demonstrated that the veterans of the World War, today in the prime of life, are better off from the point of view of employment and of annual income than the average of any other great group of our citizens. 'Let these facts, let this great monument—this veterans' hospital and other institutions of their kind throughout the country—serve as a symbolic and bold denial of any careless statement that the United States does not take care of those who have served it in war—and as a symbolic affirmation of our belief in the underlying patriotic willingness of our veterans to put first things first."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

NEW HOSPITAL IS DEDICATED BY PRESIDENT

Text of Address
"In coming to Roanoke to take part in the dedication of the latest addition to our chain of veterans hospitals, I do not seek to enumerate or catalogue the many steps which have been taken by your federal government to care for its veterans of many wars. 'Most of you in this great audience are from this neighborhood and in the years to come the men who will accompany this hospital will be your friends and your neighbors. I commend them to your care.'"

"You see before you today a monument which is representative of the national policy of your government that its disabled and sick veterans shall be accorded the best treatment which medical and surgical science can supply. 'In a larger sense these buildings are a symbol of the broader policy that the government is seeking to give aid not only to veterans but also to thousands of other citizens—men, and women and children who, handicapped by environment or by circumstance, lack today what reasonable people call the essentials of modern civilization.'"

"For many years we have seen a constantly growing realization of the fact that any large or small group which lacks the elementary necessities of proper food, decent housing, or adequate medical attention, or essential education, drags down the level of the country as a whole and retards its progress. 'Forgotten People'—"

"In one sense these men and women and children are not forgotten people for the very good reason that we have known of their existence and appreciated their plight for many years. In another sense, however, they have been forgotten for it is only in recent years that government has undertaken to help them on a national scale. 'The further we go into our survey to find out who these people are and where they live, the more appalled I am by the magnitude of our task. Most of us know in general terms of the slum conditions which exist in many of our cities. Most of us know, from hearsay at least, of people who have lived for generations in back eddies of life. But we have failed to realize the existence of the underprivileged who are present and largely forgotten in practically every one of the fourty-eight states of the Union. 'The improvement of their hard lot is a definite obligation on all of our citizens and I am confident that the veterans of our American wars will be among the first to recognize this fact. 'The improvement of their hard lot compels our immediate exertions, not only because of the individual and human beings who suffer today, but, even more important to the future of America, because future generations of American citizens will become the descendants of those who are now in need. In this thought also the veterans of our wars will go along. 'Let it be well remembered that the hundreds of thousands of men and women and children to whom I have referred, scattered throughout our nation, have no splendid hospitals for their care, have no medical attention, such as we will provide here, have no good food and decent raiment such as will be provided in this veterans' home; have no opportunities for adequate education, and can but suffer the ill of their lives according to their own individual circumstances. 'Country Better Off 'You have heard it said that we must restore prosperity. You have heard some kind people say that the country is distinctly better off from a material point of view than it was last year. I am inclined to agree with them. Other people, who fail to think things through, forget that one cause of the depression which we are beginning to leave behind, was the very existence of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children who have been and continue to be a definite drag against the return of prosperity. WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Oct. 19. (To the Editor of The Register:) There must not be such a thing in this country as what you would call an "amateur crook." Every person that is caught in some terrible crime, you find where he has been "paroled, pardoned and pampered by every jail, or insane asylum in the country. Some of these criminals' records and the places they have been freed from, it sounds like the tour of a "one night stand theatrical troupe." It must be awfully monotonous belonging to one of these State pardon boards. There is days and days when they just have to sit around waiting for new criminals to be caught, so they can pardon 'em.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

TOASTMASTERS STAGE PROGRAM FOR LIONS CLUB

Growth and accomplishments of the Toastmasters' clubs were told at the Lions club meeting yesterday noon at James cafe, when Lion members of the Toastmasters club meeting for the entertainment of the Lions.

E. H. Layton acted as chairman of the Toastmasters program, and the speakers were Joe Peterson, Harold Yost, and A. G. Green. Peterson chose as his subject, "American Democracy," in which he outlined political trends of the day.

Green discussed the use of the new leisure made possible by the shorter work week, and said that all big things have been done by those who took advantage of their spare time, and thus used it for the benefit of mankind.

This is the era of Government, Yost declared, and government affairs concern each one today more than ever before because of the increasing regulation by governmental units.

Talks Criticized
In the usual Toastmaster fashion, and speakers and toastmaster were criticized by other members of the club, including Vic Walker, Carlyle Dennis, Glenn Tidball, and Carson Smith.

Ralph Smedley, founder of the Toastmasters club movement, was a guest at the meeting, and told how the activity was started 30 years ago to train young men for public speaking, and its growth to influence in helping to develop the character and capacity of club members.

There are now 22 Toastmasters clubs, with nearly 500 members, as an outgrowth of the original Santa Ana club organized by Smedley in connection with local Y. M. C. A. work, it was brought out at the meeting.

Secy. Morgenthau Praises Record of Security-National

The record of loans granted in Southern California during the month of September by the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles has been singled out for praise by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. His statement, released from Washington, D. C., on October 18, was given national circulation by a leading financial news service, according to Manager F. J. Was of the Santa Ana branch.

It was announced that during September Security-First National Bank had made 217 national housing loans totalling $125,890; 46 real estate loans aggregating $685,275; and 3711 commercial loans totalling $6,640,648.

Secretary Morgenthau characterized this as a "well record," according to the news release, inferring that it set a good example for other financial institutions. Similar action all over the country, he said, would stimulate business.

HELD FOR TRIAL UNDER $1000 BAIL
Charged with drunken driving, John Mayers, of Orange, was arraigned in the Santa Ana justice court yesterday afternoon, had his preliminary hearing set for October 24 at 9 a. m. and had bail fixed at $1000, which he has failed to post.

Mayers was driving a car which collided with a machine driven by Ed Farnsworth, Jr., 2219 North Broadway, on Wednesday night at Seventeenth and Main streets. Four persons were hurt in the crash.

Child Stealing Charge Lands Man In County Jail

Mendez was alleged to have taken a 15-year-old girl from her home here to Oceanside, where she was located by officers. The girl was returned to the juvenile detention home.

More than six inches of rain and several inches of snow were reported to the Automobile club touring bureau. While there was no snow at Lake Arrowhead, Los Angeles County Playground had three inches, and two inches were reported in the higher regions near Big Bear Lake.

FIVE DRUNKEN MOTORISTS ASK COURT'S MERCY

Jule Thomas Turner, who looted dwellings in three cities during September, was sentenced to a term of from one to five years at San Quentin for second degree burglary, when he appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen in a plea for probation.

Turner had pleaded guilty to burglary of the A. H. Halleck dwelling at Three Arches, where he had loaded all the furniture of the house into a truck before being detected. Halleck resides in Anaheim and the beach home was unoccupied at the time.

Another dwelling in Newport Beach, and building materials at the site of a new dwelling in Laguna Beach also were looted by Turner. He had been charged, in addition, with petty theft of automobile tires at Huntington Beach. Five defendants charged with drunk driving were on the criminal calendar before Judge Allen today. Anastacio Rivera, Clyde Childs and J. D. Goin pleaded guilty and asked for probation, their hearings being set for next Friday. Goin was arrested at Huntington Beach August 15, Childs at Costa Mesa October 7, and Rivera at Brea October 9.

John Dwight Faris, of Orange, who had previously pleaded guilty to the charge, was granted probation for five years, with one year in the county jail. The jail sentence was suspended on condition that he drink no more liquor.

Walter W. Gregory, facing the same charge, was granted two years probation.

Pete Stumpf, charged with a statutory offense against a 14-year-old girl, and with contributing to her delinquency, June 2, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Preston School of Industry

Wreck That Killed Four Laid to Broken Rail

The broken rail shown at right is believed to have been the cause of this wreck on the Milwaukee railroad near Guttenberg, Ia., in which four were killed and three badly injured. Engine, tender, and the two passenger cars were piled up in a creek bed, when the train plunged off a small bridge down a 15-foot grade, the impact hurling the last car ahead of the locomotive.

REPORT AGREEMENT ON GUN CLUB WATER USE SETTING EIGHT INCH LIMIT IN YEAR

While no definite agreements were reached at yesterday's conference between Supervisors, Farm Bureau representatives, and gun club conferees, there was said to be an informal understanding that gun clubs of Orange county might accept a restriction in their use of water for duck ponds, to an amount equal to eight inches per year per acre, covering the 1500 acres of their holdings in the county.

Supervisor Leroy Lyon, of Placentia, board committeeman at the conference, emerged from the conference late yesterday to report such a probability; also the likelihood that no modification would be made in the county ordinance against waste of water.

Further conferences over the prospective restriction agreement were said by Lyon to be in view, but no definite dates were set. Leo G. McLaughlin and J. G. Pyle, Pasadena representatives of the gun clubs, both officials of the Westminster Gun club, had indicated the possibility that a restriction to eight inches per acre might be agreeable to the clubs, it was said.

There is a prospect, said Lyon, that some such restriction might be embodied in the form of stipulations to be made by the county and the gun club, in compromising the present injunction suit pending against the Westminster Gun club, an action brought by the county to test the right of the gun clubs to pump water for the duck ponds.

Inasmuch as any water user is entitled to consume up to 81 inches of water per acre each year, providing that not more than five per cent of whatever amount is used shall be allowed to run to waste, the prospective restriction to eight inches per year was viewed with satisfaction, Lyon said.

Lyon expressed the opinion that golf clubs would not be brought into any discussion or agreement regarding restrictions of water use.

at one until he is 21. James O. Ford pleaded not guilty to a charge of robbery, his trial being set for November 27. He was accused of taking $100 from E. H. Salazar in a hold-up of the Bristol Drug company store, Santa Ana, January 22, 1933.

In Superior Judge G. K. Scofield's court, James McManners and James Kelsay, of Anaheim, convicted of second-degree robbery of the Winking Eye cafe at Buena Park September 24, moved for a new trial, which was denied, and then applied for probation. Their hearing was set for November 2.

BROAD PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR SCHOOL OF AIR

Dramatized educational programs of the American School of the Air will return to the nationwide network of the Columbia Broadcasting System on Monday, October 22, for the sixth consecutive season of broadcasting to the grade and high school children of the country. The 1934-35 radio classes will be audible in the regular 11:30 a. m. to 12 noon period on Monday through Friday of each week. Several changes in the curriculum will be made this year to broaden its scope.

A new School of the Air feature will be a period devoted to vocational guidance. This will occupy the second 15 minutes on Fridays and will cover "The World of Work," presented with the cooperation of the Vocational Guidance Committee of the National Advisory Council on Radio in Education. Vocational problems arising in the lives of everyday people will be set forth in dramatized form.

The first part of the Friday half-hour (from 11:30 to 11:45) will bring another new feature to the radio classroom. It will be a series of talks on "The World Today," by Dr. Stephen P. Duggan, director of the Institute of International Education, Inc.

The regular subjects, taught in previous terms of the air school—history, geography, literature, music—will cover new fields this season. For the first time, a radio dramatization of a Bernard Shaw play will be part of the course in literature, which will cover the development of the drama from the time of Euripides through Shakespeare, Moliere, Sheridan, Schiller, Mowatt, Rostand, Keely, Milne, O'Neill and Shaw. Significant works of these dramatists will be presented by casts of highly capable artists from the legitimate stage. The broadcasts will be heard on Tuesdays and will be planned for high school students.

Literature classes for students of upper grades, alternating with the high school periods, will deal with story favorites of children for many past generations, including "The Legend of King Arthur," "Hans Brinker and the Silver Skates," "Tom Sawyer," "The Cricket on the Hearth," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Pilgrims Progress," "Black Beauty," "Heddi," "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and "The Hooters Schoolmaster." The history periods, to be broadcast on Mondays, will deal with the great explorations from the time of Julius Caesar's advance into England to Amundsen's discovery of the South Pole.

The geography broadcasts on Wednesdays will be prepared by Dr. Ellsworth Huntington, research associate in geography at Yale University since 1917. They will trace, in dramatized form, the travels of a typical American family through the capital cities, industrial centers and fields of natural resources of the principal nations of the world.

Dorothy Gordon again will be in charge of music periods which will be divided into two parts, one stressing the music of various countries and the other devoted to works of individual composers. Channon Collins will occupy his accustomed place as orchestral conductor. Helen Albert, as the "Story Lady," will assist Miss Gordon.

The School of the Air broadcasts are prepared and will be broadcast under the supervision of a large advisory committee headed by Dr. William C. Bagley, professor of education at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

Hinkley said that another car came from a driveway and struck his machine but he did not learn the name of the other motorist.

LUTHERAN CHURCH DISCUSSES FILMS

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 19. (UP)—A campaign against undesirable movies may be undertaken by the United Lutheran church of America. It was indicated at the church's ninth biennial convention here today.

A pre-convention bulletin of the committee on morals and social welfare suggested that "wherever feasible and proper" church members support candidates for public office who will use their legislative influence toward "safeguarding the public welfare by the enactment of laws dealing with the source with the evil of pernicious pictures."

Other issues expected to reach the floor of the convention, attended by more than 500 delegates from all parts of the country, included seating of women, delegates in general and synodical conventions, and recommendations to aid actively in the cause of temperance.

SAYS HOOVER VS. ROOSEVELT IN HOUSE RACE

A. B. Hillabold, Fullerton business man who was chosen by Democrats of the Nineteenth district as their write-in candidate for congress at the election November 6, last night told a radio audience that the district either will vote for Hillabold and send a Democrat to Washington to aid President Roosevelt's progressive recovery movement, or will place itself in the position of rejecting Roosevelt and approving the program of ex-President Hoover.

To return Congressman Collins, Republican incumbent, to congress would be to register complete approval of the Hoover regime, said Hillabold, pointing out that Collins' first vote in congress was cast against granting to President Roosevelt those powers which were necessary to prevent total economic collapse, which was the legacy from the Hoover administration.

Hillabold presented to the voters a platform favoring a revision of the banking system, which he declared was necessary before prosperity could be restored; immediate payment of the soldier bonus, to stimulate business; and an old age pension.

If it is good business to let one bank in Chicago have $50,000,000 to send into circulation, it is good business to put two billion dollars of our existing obligations into circulation, by paying the soldier bonus now, Hillabold urged.

By waiting until maturity of the soldier certificates in 1945, and then issuing $2,000,000,000 in bonds to pay them, the government will have paid $2,000,000,000 in interest on the bonds before they are retired, he said.

The federal reserve bank, privately owned, is using the government bonds, or credit, collecting interest from the government and then lending the government credit to private industry and collecting from that source too, said the speaker. So long as government credit is under private control, like that, economic recovery is impossible, he asserted.

Shortening work hours is necessary to aid in the spread of employment, but that is not enough, said Hillabold. Besides that, the work span in the life of the worker also must be shortened. There must be a pension for the aged, he said.

Hillabold denounced "rugged individualism" and Republican references to infringement upon liberty by the New Deal.

"The three outstanding exponents of rugged individualism in America are Al Capone, John Dillinger and Gilbert Beesemeyer," he said.

Late News From Fullerton And Vicinity

3 CANDIDATES' PROGRAMS TOLD FORUM GROUP

FULLERTON, Oct. 19.—Under auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. clubs of Fullerton Junior college, three men presented the programs of the three gubernatorial candidates at the Charles Ruby forum in the old auditorium of the school. More than 350 attended.

Al Rees represented Raymond Haight, H. S. Hoard, Upton Sinclair, and E. Neal Ames, Governor Frank Merriam.

Ames, a Los Angeles attorney, formerly a Placentia man, said the people of California cannot solve the problem alone, and should continue along the same way, "not attempt to plow new furrows," that recovery may be brought about in a normal manner. He declared, further, that lack of confidence of business men will be restored only through election of Merriam, and that the difficulty today is lack of confidence. He contended the 25 per cent unemployed can be cared for by others until reconstruction is complete.

In his talk, Hoard declared that lack of confidence of business is a strange circumstance, and cited figures that this "lack of confidence" started in 1926. He said between 1921 and 1932, 282,060 commercial institutes went bankrupt; that prior to 1932, "while Mellon had three presidents serving under him, 17,000 banks failed in the United States." He declared that the whole economic system was falling prior to the advent of President Roosevelt, which "does not indicate that he or Upton Sinclair is responsible for failures."

"There is but one way out," England is faced with the problem of raising enough food for her needs, instead of having a surplus, as in the United States. She is now making a detailed survey of the island with the aid of 22,000 volunteer surveyors.

Hoard declared, "and that is by putting men to work producing the needs of life, the Sinclair plan; at present the policy is to keep men out of work, that they may be pitted against each other in the economic scheme, and that wages may be kept low, that a few may get wealthy."

Rees declared that Haight favors old age pensions, smashing the big business combines and giving chances for individuals, as a policy of recovery.

He condemned "chamber of commerce luncheon programs that prove we are on an upward trend because consumption of electricity has increased," and that that report resulted from the electric corporations importing from Japan electric light globes that cost five cents, and consumed so much electricity that had the purchaser of the globe been given a two dollar bill with each globe, he would have saved money in a month purchasing another kind.

He also condemned the crying of communism and "red," and said that cry had been injected in the campaign to throw people off the trail.

He declared that he has completed an 18-month investigation of "reds" and "Communists" in Eastside Los Angeles, "Captain Hynes' red" squad of police has more members than there are "reds" in Los Angeles," he declared.

Ruby, prior to the political speeches, reviewed the Orange County forum lecture Tuesday night by Lawrence Dennis. Announcement of the next meeting revealed that Chester Bonner, government crime and narcotics investigator, will speak. Raymond Haight will be the speaker a week from Thursday. Ruby said last spring he has had Merriam and Sinclair as speakers and wants Fullertonians to hear Haight.

England is faced with the problem of raising enough food for her needs, instead of having a surplus, as in the United States. She is now making a detailed survey of the island with the aid of 22,000 volunteer surveyors.

FLOOD CONTROL MEETING HELD NEXT MONDAY

FULLERTON, Oct. 19.—The urgent need of flood protection was stressed at the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday noon at Hughes cafe, where directors voted to seek action on a local program, and in connection therewith called a meeting for Monday at the Chamber of Commerce hall in the California hotel building for further discussion.

It was pointed out at the chamber meeting that check dams are badly needed for this program of control. The Brea creek water conservation and flood control project was given considerable attention several months ago by chamber officials and other Northern Orange county residents interested in conservation and flood control. It has been dropped as a separate problem and entered as part of the general Santa Ana river valley control project.

All interested in the meeting on flood control Monday are invited to be at the office of the chamber at 7:30 o'clock.

Under consideration at the meeting will be the estimated project for control as presented by Walter Humphreys at the meeting yesterday. He said the project would cost about $600,000, of which not more than 40 per cent would represent SERRA labor. Included in this would be purchase of 150 acres of land for a shortage basin.

Dr. George L. McClelland approached the chamber with the proposition of changing the name of the Fullerton Municipal airport to Fullerton-Anaheim airport in event Anaheim agrees to the proposition. Dr. McClelland was instructed to outline a program that could be worked out and present it at the next meeting.

SAYS BUDGET PLAN MAKES POSSIBLE BUYING GOOD TIRES

Hundreds of automobiles are driven daily in Santa Ana with worn, unsafe tires, according to a statement made yesterday by Q. L. Hardy, budget department manager for Herbert L. Miller, Inc., distributor for Diamond tires in Orange county.

"Car owners who take such chances do so because they are unaware that they are offered an alternative," he continued. "Literally any motorist can now purchase safe, brand-new Diamond tires. Willard batteries and other automotive necessities on very easy credit, involving no cash down payment."

"In view of this fact, a motorist who risks his life and the lives of others by driving on worn-out equipment is badly in need of some education."

An outstanding new budget pay plan was recently announced by Herbert L. Miller, Inc. The system, said to be extremely flexible, makes possible any size purchase by any motorist on liberal terms.

Schedule Given For Grand Opera Season In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19.—"The Bartered Bride" and "Secret of Suzanne" will be presented here for the first time with an all-star cast, an excellent chorus and full orchestra during the coming opera season. In addition there will be another Los Angeles premiere of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or." (The Golden Cockerel) staged by Adolph Bohm, Russian cancer-producer. Of course, no season, however short, would be complete without the presentation of the ever popular operas "Carmen" and "Manon."

The gala-opening performance is Saturday night, November 3, at Shrine Auditorium, with Smetana's enticing comic opera, "The Bartered Bride," Elisabeth Rethberg, noted Metropolitan star, supported by Mario Chamlee, another favorite, in the leading roles. Alfred Hertz, also a former Metropolitan conductor, wielding the baton. Colorful scenes of rural Bohemia, an excellent chorus and a ballet ensemble add interest to this rollicking old-world comedy.

Los Angeles has been waiting years to see "Le Coq d'Or" (The Golden Cockerel) Rimsky-Korsakoff's opera-pantomime, which was produced with outstanding success last year during the San Francisco Grand Opera Season. Adolph Bohm, noted Russian producer and dancer, has not only staged this colorful musical fantasia of the famous Russian composer but has also created the various dancing and pantomimic scenes to the gorgeous settings designed by the Russian artist Nicolas Rimoff.

Preceding "Le Coq d'Or" which is presented in English is Wolf-Ferrari's opera "The Secret of Suzanne" with Doris Kenyon and Nelson Eddy in the principal roles.

"Carmen" and "Manon" are presented in French. In both operas Mme. Ninon Vallin, prima-donna soprano of the Opera Comique of Paris, a great favorite in the French capital will be featured. Richard Crooks, American tenor, will make his local debut in Massenet's opera. As Chevalier des Grieux he scored not less than 37 encores at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, last season.

"Stop yer kickin' bout the times,
Git a hustle on yer;
Skirmish 'round and grab the dimes
'Ef the dollars shun ye,
Croakin' never bought a dress,
Growlin' isn't in it,
Fix yer peepers on success,
Then go in to win it;
Times is gettin' good again,
Try to help 'em all you kin'.

Don't sit 'round with hangin' lip
That is sure to floor you,
Try to git a better grip
On the work before you
PUT SOME GINGER IN YER' WORDS
When ye greet a neighbor,
Throw yer troubles to the birds,
Git right down to labor
An' you'll notice every day
Things is comin' right your way.

"Stop yer kickin'. Git a hold
Of the wheel, and turn it.
You kin never handle gold
Lest ye try to earn it;
Bresh' the cob-webs from yer eyes,
Stop yer durn repinin'
An' you'll notice that yer skies
Allus will be shinin'
Ef you hain't the nerve to try,
Sneak away somewheres and die.

'CHILD, HOME' DISCUSSED AT P.-T. A. MEET

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—Stating that the reason for the increase in juvenile delinquency could be laid to a decrease in social justice, John Waage, home counselor of the Huntington Beach high school, addressed the Newport Beach P.-T. A. this week on the subject of "The Child and the Home."

"The conditions to be alleviated," Waage said, "are those which cause the child character to have a lack of anchorage, a lack of stability, assurance and confidence in parents, teachers, law and order. Problem children are the result of a lack of real or sufficient home interest in the child or his activities. Give the child a real home and you will give him a real start in life."

THE UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN
Copyright 1934 by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Who killed Tracy King, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment? David Bannister, author, former newspaper reporter, undertakes to find out.

Police are searching for a "unknown blond" who visited King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen the girl, but she has since disappeared.

Herman Scurlach, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. Al Dragan, friend of King's, says the orchestra leader has been having trouble with Joe Parrott, his former vaudeville partner, and accuses Parrott of the murder. Police learn that Melvin Hollister, middle-aged spinster, had a violent quarrel with King after he had killed her cat. Captain McNeal of the detective bureau goes to see Miss Hollister and her brother, Melvin. When he leaves he declares, "Those two will be watching."

Next morning Bannister learns that the blond suspect has been arrested. He goes to see her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"How long have you been here?" "Since last night."

"Last night? You mean you were here in this cell—?"

The girl nodded. "Oh, yes," she said. "The lady on your left there snored. There was one here last night who was worse. She kept shrieking the most terrible things. They took her away awhile ago. Oh, there's been plenty of excitement. The detectives keep asking me questions and they've taken my finger prints—"

Her fingers, where they rested against the cell bars were white and gracefully formed.

"See here!" Bannister interrupted. "There must be something I can do. Someone to get in touch with!"

The girl shook her head. For an instant the gray eyes held his. "There's no one," she said. "The hand that had rested against the bars fluttered to her mouth."

"But there must be!" Bannister insisted.

The girl continued to eye him. "Yesterday," she said, "you promised to help me. I was afraid and ran away. That was a mistake—"

Bannister glanced over his shoulder. The woman in the blue uniform was far down the corridor. There was no one to overhear.

"Where did you go?" he asked. She hesitated, then went on slowly. "I thought someone was following me. That frightened me and I left the hotel. I didn't know where to go or what to do. Then I saw a department store. I wanted to buy something different to wear so I went in but I thought people were staring at me. I went into the rest room and it was quiet there. Not many people came in. I found a magazine and stayed there, trying to read, until time for the store to close."

"Then I went to the railway station. I stayed in the women's room for awhile. About 9 o'clock when I went out to buy a ticket a man came to the window and showed me a police badge. He said he was a detective and that I'd have to come with him. He brought me here and I've been here ever since."

The girl turned away and Bannister noticed the grace of her shoulders. It was a grace that is not acquired, a grace that speaks of family and breeding. There was poise and dignity in that slight movement.

Bannister thought, "This is the last place on earth to find such a girl!"

But she was there never-the-less. Bannister shifted uneasily, aware that he was facing a situation for which he had no solution. He

PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR HARBOR EVENT

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 18.—Although the event is nearly a year in the offing, preparations are already under way at Newport Beach for a big celebration to mark the official opening of the new harbor upon its completion. First plans were received by the local chamber of commerce yesterday in a letter from Albert Soland, Admiral of the Pacific Coast Yachting Association, Los Angeles, according to President A. B. Roussele of the chamber.

Soland, who sailed the first yacht into Newport harbor some 30 years ago, was appointed by President Roussele to head a committee of his own choosing to arrange plans for the celebration. Soland's projected celebration would entail the presence of an armada of Southland yachts, escorted by a detail of lighter duty U. S. war vessels, to be met at the harbor entrance by a complete line up of local craft, the whole to enter the bay officially the day the dredgers are removed.

The tentative plan calls for a fleet of yachts, lead by the war ships, including yachts and power craft of all sizes, to assemble at San Pedro for the trip to Newport Harbor. It is planned to secure representation from all yacht clubs of California. Admiral Soland hopes to secure a convoy of navy planes and coast guard vessels to accompany the fleet to Newport, in addition to the war ships.

WITH THE SEASON WELL UNDER WAY THE TEAM IS STILL WITHOUT A CAPTAIN, BECAUSE THEY CAN'T DECIDE WHETHER THEY OUGHT TO HAVE BUD BENNIS, WHOSE FATHER OWNS THE LOT THEY PLAY ON, OR JUNIOR SCHWARTZ, WHOSE FATHER KNOWS A MAN IN THE SPORTING GOODS BUSINESS WHO CAN GET A NEW FOOTBALL CHEAP, OR EDDIE SELZER, WHO IS THE BEST PLAYER.

Hitler Studies Map of Saar

After opening the campaign to win the plebiscite that will decide whether or not the Saar basin wants to return to German government, Adolf Hitler inaugurated the "German Saar Exhibit" at Cologne. He's shown here, at left, viewing a huge relief map of the Saar over which he would become dictator if next year's election favors Germany.

Pick of Three

It was apple pie for Antoinette Lees, above, to be picked as the most beautiful woman in her town, since she had only two competitors in the little mining settlement of Clemencia, Mexico, which she once called home. But she looks good enough to win, hands down, in New York, don't you think? Well, a movie producer thinks so. He signed her to a long-term contract.

His Tests Yield Key to Heredity

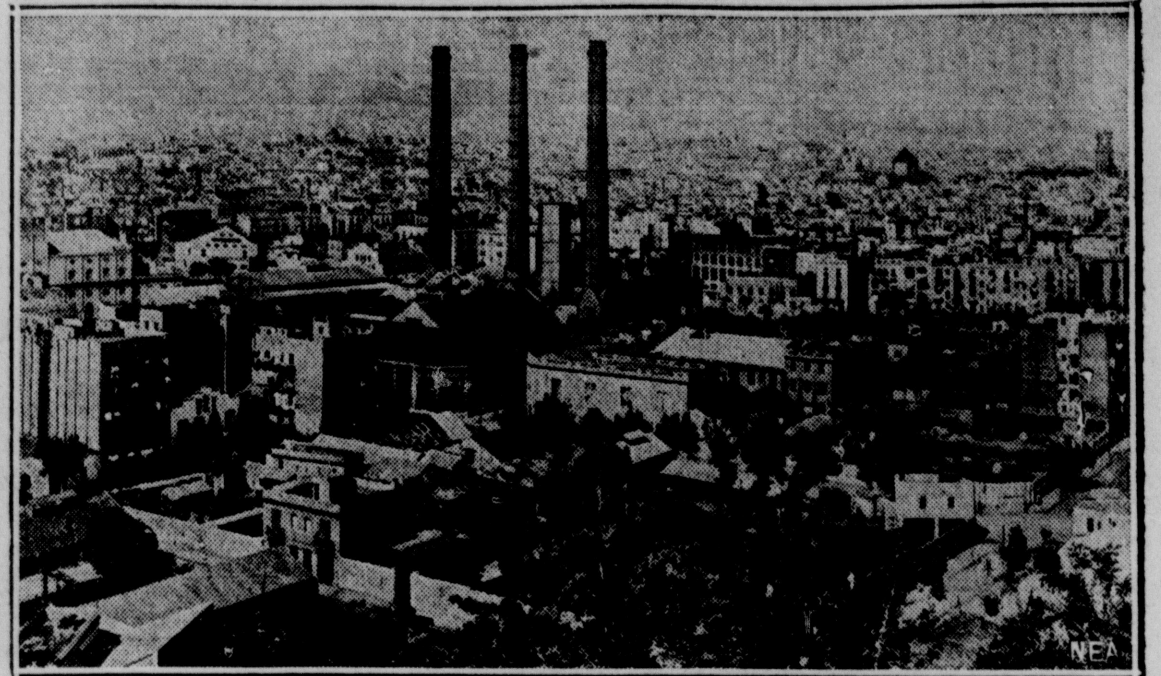

Discovery of a heredity key which promises to explain the mysteries of evolution as the Rosetta stone did the mysteries of Egyptian hieroglyphics is credited to Dr. Calvin B. Bridges, above, of the Carnegie Institution. His experiments were made with the giant chromosomes found in the cells of the yeast fly's salivary glands.

Stages Career For Prince

Ina Claire, who picked John Gilbert for the role of husband and then divorced him, has proved she is a good picker of actors. Through her influence Prince Ferdinand von Liechtenstein, was given a role in the famous Stockbridge, Mass., stock productions where his work has marked him for chance on Broadway. On the playbills he's identified as Edward Ruethberg.

In Barcelona, Where Revolt Flared Anew

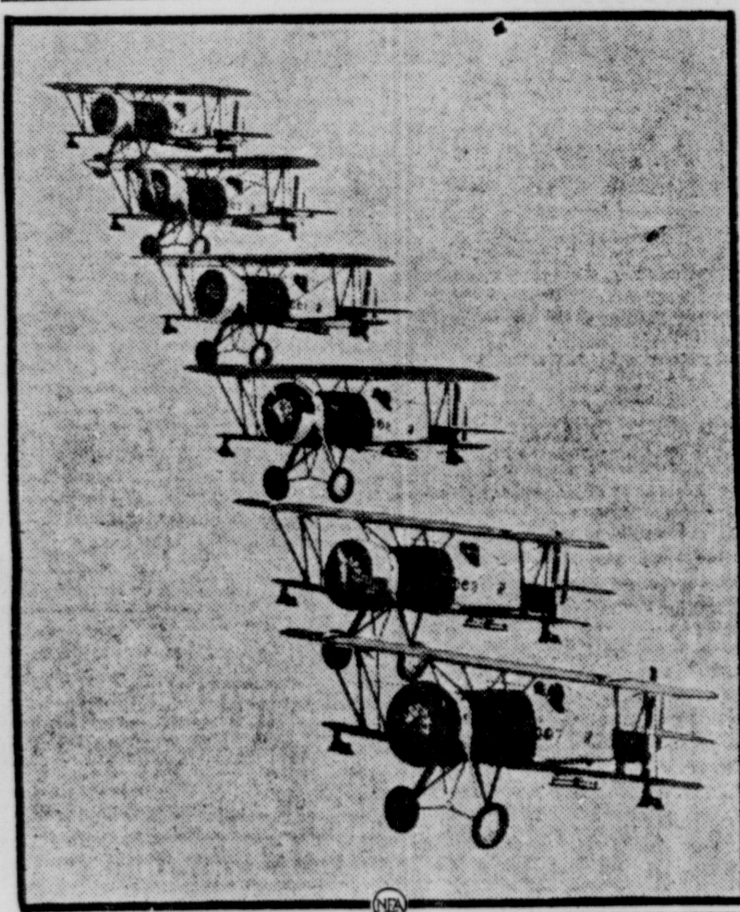

The narrow streets of the ancient city of Barcelona, part of which is pictured here, were the battle ground for renewed outbreak of extremists' revolt against the Spanish government after it was believed the quick action by loyal troops had quelled the uprising.

Youth Has Its Day in Court

"You'd scarce expect one of my age to speak in public . . ." in court. But there were Billy Lee Schenker and Virginia Welder, big as life, clutching their new movie contracts. Judge Marshall F. McComb of Los Angeles superior court had just given his judicial approval of their contracts, which accounts for the proud and triumphant pose of the youngsters.

High Steppers, These Marines

These six planes seem to be welded together into an aerial ladder, but that's just an optical illusion. The skill of their U. S. marine pilots is such that they maintain this difficult formation merely as part of the day's work, as the squadron of "hell divers" demonstrated in recent maneuvers.

Thor-oughly Beautiful

Betty Thor, who first won the title of Miss London, now has been selected at England's most beautiful girl and will be entered in the international competition for the selection of Miss Universe.

May Pool Their Movie Ambitions

As close as this, say Hollywood reports, are Cecelia Parker, 19, blond and blue-eyed cinema beauty, and Nelson Eddy, handsome young baritone, who was a newspaper reporter, telephone operator, trap drummer and plumber until he learned to sing from phonograph records and scored on a concert tour. The movie capital won't be surprised if the two decide to try for fame in double harness.

Sentenced as Fraternity Robbers

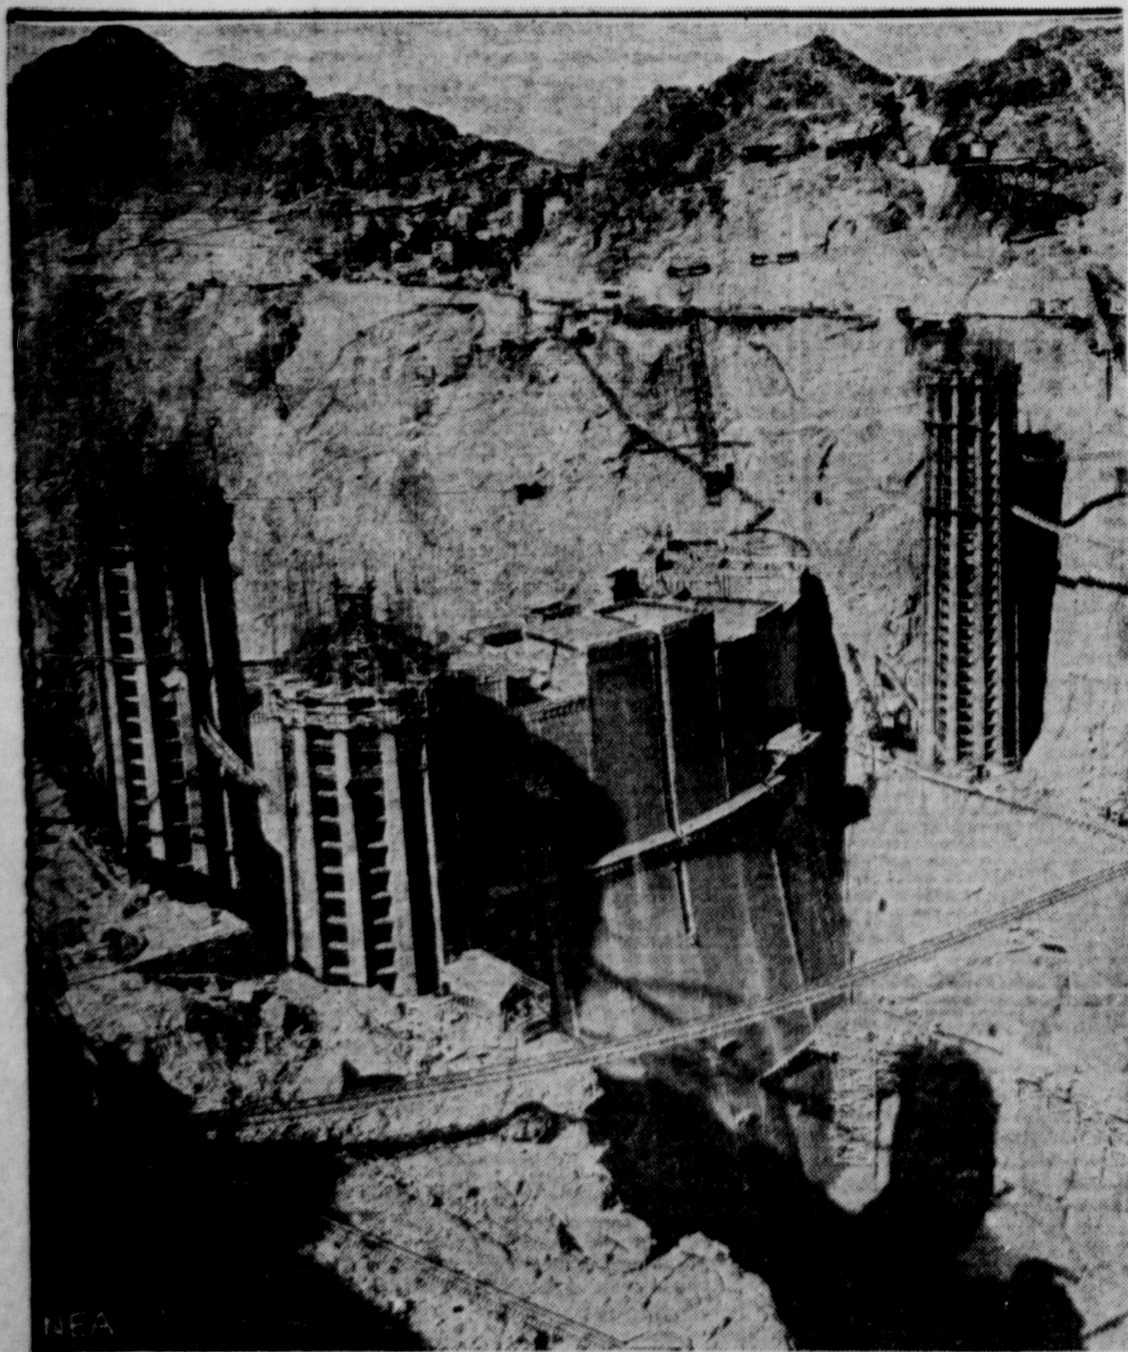

When George Rose, left, and John C. Eckstrum, right, former University of Wisconsin students, called on fraternity "brothers" at Oregon State College, they were welcomed with open arms. When they left, however, the hosts found some $800 had departed with them. Caught, they confessed the robberies and were sentenced to five years in prison. Police say the pair confessed similar robberies at the University of Washington.

Proving Hawaii Is Part of U. S.

When Secy. of Agriculture Wallace said Hawaii was not an integral part of the United States, residents of that territory proved that it was by showing the original treaty of 1897, ceding Hawaii to the United States. Lorrin P. Thurston (right), son of Hawaii's original signer of the treaty, is shown inspecting the rare document with Edmund Hart, keeper of the archives in Honolulu.

Giant Towers Guard Upstream Construction at Dam

A new view of the upstream side of gigantic Boulder dam on the Colorado river, rapidly nearing completion. Giant towers on each side of the stream bed are intake towers, feeding penstock tunnels to the power house. Officials of Six Companies, Inc., builders of the project, estimate that the dam is now 75 per cent complete and will be finished in February.

Chile Puts Up Horse Show Trophy

Captain and Mrs. Eduardo Yanez (above) brought with them from Santiago the magnificent challenge trophy donated by President Arturo Alessandri of Chile to be awarded to the high scoring team in the military jumping contests at the International Horse Show, which will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, November 7 to 13. Captain Yanez heads the Chilean Army team that will compete for the trophy.

Seeing the World Is Their Goal

Two Seattle, Wash., youths out to see the world, very much on their own, are Dwight Long, left, and Jack Lowry, both 21. They are shown in San Francisco on the first leg of an adventurous trip they hope will carry them around the world in their 32-foot ketch, the Hawk. With the pair is Hugo, their Doberman mascot.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

ROW

The inside story of what really happened between the White House and the all-powerful U. S. Chamber of Commerce in the recent questionnaire dispute is the best tale yet to illustrate how things are done backstage in Washington.

The White House refuses to confirm or deny it, and the chamber naturally cannot be expected to talk, but an authentic account of the affair can be had. It shows that the misunderstanding was NOT patched up in that recent conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the Chamber President Harriman, but exists worse than ever.

Reverberations may be heard from now on.

QUESTION MARKS

The trouble began when the chamber some weeks ago issued that list of questions for the president to answer, implying that he must do so to clear up business uncertainty. The press rather generally interpreted the questionnaire as a noble effort to put the president on the spot. Mr. Roosevelt later said the questions sounded like that old one, "when did you stop beating your wife?"

The White House was upset and began an investigation to determine whether the chamber had ever before issued a questionnaire to a president. No precedent could be found.

The C. of C. is understood to have informed New Dealers privately that the questions were not intended to be questions at all. They were simply a list of "subjects," like those which the chamber had occasionally in the past submitted to previous presidents. That took the sting out of them a little, but not much, because all the so-called "subjects" still had question marks behind them. Also, the president was still publicly left on the spot.

PEACE?

After that phase quieted down, the chamber is understood to have despatched an emissary to the White House, in an effort to make peace. This emissary explained the chamber was NOT gunning for the New Dealers and that Mr. Harriman would like to see Mr. Roosevelt.

No definite answer was given then, but before the emissary got back to chamber headquarters, the White House called up Mr. Harriman and told him to come over.

The conference was highly successful. The gentlemen shook hands and peace was again established. But Mr. Harriman walked out of the conference and informed newsmen that he had been called to the White House by the president.

You can imagine what effect that had on the Hyde Park squire, when he saw it in the papers. He had decided to forget about the question marks, but here was Mr. Harriman making it appear that the White House had meekly initiated the peace arrangements.

It was obviously only an unfortunate circumstance, but when two circumstances like that occur in succession, they become something more than circumstances. Unquestionably the affair will be straightened out eventually, but just now it is dangerous to mention the C. of C. around the White House.

IDEA

The story being told in New Deal circles is that the C. of C. list was first prepared by two prominent bankers, whose names you all know, one in Chicago and one in New York. Both are leaders in the C. of C. It was in much stronger language when they originally offered it. The chamber directors toned it down considerably before making it public.

IODINE

The funniest story now being told by New Deal critics is the one about the wife, the iodine and the dog.

The wife is mistress of a prominent New Deal home and she likes dogs. It was some time ago that she was visited by a woman famed for her cook books. Possibly the dog had tasted some morsels from the cook books. At any rate, he greeted the famous cook by jumping up and taking a bite out of her.

The hostess heard the commotion and came running with the maid. Surveying the scene with dismay, she turned to the maid and said:

"Henrietta, hereafter you keep iodine in the drawing room."

P. S. Three months later she decided to get rid of the dog.

PROGRESS

The Morro Castle report, coming out next week, will recommend important new marine regulations, particularly as to steel superstructures, fire doors and ship construction.

More important, it will lament the fact that existing laws strongly protect ship owners against payment of real damages for carelessness. New laws will also be recommended on that subject.

NOTES

The administration is irked about the establishment of that new silver exchange in Montreal for the purpose of permitting American silver speculations and investment. Something may be done about it.

Attorney General Cummings has changed his mind on the Houde case, because Labor Board Chairman Garrison dug up new evidence which makes prosecution advisable.

Some Liberty league friends say that outfit has raised $500,000, which is a lot of money these days.

The rumors about Louis Howe being seriously ill are incorrect. He is still resting at his Fall River home, but will return to the White House shortly.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

FADING

Evidence accumulates week by week that the administration is gradually veering to a policy of pats on the back for big industry and finance instead of the kicks in the slats to which they had become painfully accustomed. New York conservatives are pleased but not crowing. They believe they are going to get a fairer shake to promote recovery along lines they consider sound than they've had before. But most of them also figure they'll catch worse hell than ever—from Congress if not from the President—if their formula doesn't produce substantial results within a few months. So the majority attitude is genuinely cooperative rather than triumphant.

The four key planks in the New York industrial and banking platform have consistently been (1) less regimentation, (2) an end to monetary experiments, (3) less government favoritism to labor and (4) a balanced federal budget. Their views are being broadly met on the first two and partially on the third.

On the first, the revised NRA shapes more and more to conservative leaders' approval. It appears that industries which like their codes will be allowed to retain them with government support while those that don't will be permitted to their theirs gently overboard—always excepting wage and hour limitations, which don't loom as large as they did among conservative objectors to regulation. The special problems of individual industries will be given greater consideration.

From another angle the Securities and Exchange Commission's gentleness with Wall Street perks the financial community no end. Reports are current in informed quarters that the Commission will go so far as to recommend a marked lightening of Securities Act restrictions when Congress meets. The spectre of a rigid federal grip on all forms of financial activity is fading fast.

FIRM

As for monetary experiments, most bankers ask no greater assurance of "sound money" than the Treasury gave them—after several days of playing "who's got the button" with inflation rumors—with its statement that $1,870,000,000 more of 4th Liberties will be called for payment next April. This was worth a dozen announcements of "official policy" for the purpose.

The call was no surprise but the amount had the bankers gasping for air. It covers three-fifths of the whole issue still outstanding. No holder gesture could have been made to indicate the Treasury's intention of keeping the dollar stable for at least seven months and its confidence that the banks will handle refunding on satisfactory terms. In effect the move is a foreclosure on further devaluation or any other form of currency doctoring. If that were tried between now and April there's no guesswork in predicting it would not only upset the Treasury's apparent but crush the cart and apples too.

The only question that still bothers timid financiers is whether Congress will recognize the foreclosure. You can expect plenty of pinwheels and rockets from inflationary Congressmen and their backers regardless. But New Yorkers generally believe FDR will still hold a tight enough rein to prevent a runaway and will do their dullest to help him keep it tight.

Wall Street is tickled by reports that European speculators who tried to make hay out of the wilting dollar got their tails pinched in the door. These gentry went short of our currency in a big way when Senator Bulkley spoke his piece and the snapback caught them where the hair is thin.

The informed predict that the firm implications of Henry I. Harriman and its pronouncements offer useful clues.

A few days ago it voiced its gratification at "reassuring government trends" and doffed its cap to the soundness of federal credit.

This note of approval has a double significance. First, the Chamber ties in with the highest financial circles and its endorsement strongly implies that they feel the same way. Second, its opinion weighs heavily with hundreds of small

CLUES

In the matter of the capital-government-labor triangle watch the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. This conservative organization is playing smart ball under the astute leadership of Henry I. Harriman and its pronouncements offer useful clues.

It's expected that the program of social legislation will be pushed to appease labor. Only extreme conservatives will object. The others will be only too glad to pay that price to escape being forcibly saddled with fresh wage costs.

The balanced budget is the only major issue on which there is no meeting of minds between Washington and financial leaders—and even here there have been gestures. FDR's unofficial spokesmen in New York have spread the word that the budget will be balanced—except for relief expenditures. That's like saying an ocean is dry except for the water in it—but the idea is stressed that relief is an absolutely indispensable form of social insurance and most conservatives accept that view.

Bankers have been urged by these same sources to give unqualified support to any federal security issues that may be offered for relief purposes—as their price to escape being forcibly saddled with fresh wage costs.

It's expected that the program of social legislation will be pushed to appease labor. Only extreme conservatives will object. The others will be only too glad to pay that

"That is why I look to Government experts for guidance."

For your Government is unbiased. Also, it is scientific in its selection of gasoline.

Millions of gallons a year go into the tanks of Government vehicles. How are they purchased?

On specifications, only.

Specifications set by technologists who know the chemistry of gasoline by actual analysis.

For all emergency vehicles, they set higher, more rigid standards than for ordinary use.

Army ambulances must start at the first touch of the starter button . . . fire-engines must not lose a second's time . . . speedy official cars must be dependable. They need emergency gasoline.

Texaco "Fire-Chief" not only comes up to this higher quality, but even exceeds the Government's rigid technical requirements.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

The Tinies were a frightened bunch. Said Scouty, "I just had a hunch that something was about to happen. Oh, what can we do?" "Poor Duncy's high up in the air. I'll bet it's giving him a scare. That pelican just scooped him up, and then away he flew."

"I'd like to throw a coil of rope and lassie him, but there's no hope. The bird is flying much too fast. I never could succeed."

"Hey, bakers, can't you help us out? Will that bird come down, if we shout? We want to help poor Duncy, and advice is what we need."

One of the bakers laughed aloud, and then said to the Tiny crowd, "Now, don't you worry one wee bit. Wee Duncy is all right."

"That pelican is tame, you see, and just as friendly as can be. Why, I think watching them sail 'round is quite a thrilling sight."

The bird then settled on a stream,

Just as the bunch heard Dotty scream, "You may be right, friend baker, but I fear for Duncy's fate. 'Supposin' he falls from that hill. That wouldn't be much of a thrill. We'd better try and rescue him, before it is too late."

"A good idea", Scouty cried. "But tell me, what plan can be tried?" An answer promptly came from Dotty. "Swim out there," said she. "Then grab the big bird by the feet, and I am sure, if you're discreet, that you can drag him in to shore."

Then, in he dove. It was a sight to see him swim with all his might. "Good luck to you, and hurry back," he heard the Tinies roar.

(The pelican fools Scouty is the next story.)

JOINT PROJECT FOR CITIES IS BEING PLANNED

Concerted action by Orange county cities in seeking a municipal survey project from the SERA was approved by the executive committee of the Orange County League of Municipalities at a meeting at the Green Cat cafe last night.

Secretary Albert Launer was authorized to send a resolution to each city council to approve, so that a representative from each city could join to make the SERA application. The survey would include costs of municipal functions, possibility of uniform methods and coordination of activities.

The program for the meeting on October 25 in the Seal Beach civic auditorium was turned over to Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim and Secretary Launer of Fullerton. Nominations will be made for new officers of the group.

A discussion was held on the wheel tax ordinances of cities but no action was taken.

SINCLAIR COMEDY TO BE REPEATED

"Depression Island" satiric comedy by Upton Sinclair together with a group of musical and entertainment numbers under the title of the "Happy Daze Revue" played to an audience of appreciative spectators last night at the Temple theater.

Many well known musicians from Santa Ana and Orange county contributed feature musical numbers to the revue, including Anita Garcia, seven-year old pianist, Sylvia White, violinist, accompanied by Helen Glancey; Mrs. M. E. Getting, readings; Olive Eleanor Schweitzer, pianist with Johnny Hart, violinist; Edward Stovall, pianist; Russell Thompson's Hawaiians; and Vladimir Lenski, internationally known concert violinist.

"Depression Island" deals with three shipwrecked men upon a desert island. One man wins the island, the coconuts, and the fishing concessions in a dice game and the others are forced to work for him. The ensuing commentaries on the relations of capital and labor, unemployment and over production are humorously depicted. The play and revue were well received. The character of the capitalist was played by R. C. Thomas who also directed the play; Smith a song-writer, by Ted Burrell, and "Skeet" Cole took the part of Bing, a stoker.

The production will be repeated Monday night for the benefit of those who could not come during the rain on Wednesday.

Bob Steele and Shirley Temple On State Screen

Bob Steele, one of the favorite western story screen stars, faces the double task of exposing a gang of assassins and placating the girl he loves in "A Demon for Trouble," the feature at Walker's State theater today and tomorrow. As a former Texas Ranger he faces hissing bullets and savage hand-to-hand combats in solving his problems.

A Shirley Temple comedy, "Managed Money," a Silly Symphony cartoon in color, "China Shop," a chapter of "Pirate Treasure," and a news reel complete the program.

A special "treat" for members of the Walker's Kiddies' club has been arranged at the matinee Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

best protection against congressional greenbackism. It's argued that successful credit expansion is the only hope of offsetting strenuous pressure for paper money. Again most bankers see the point.

SIDELIGHTS

Bank loans to business have now risen for eleven weeks straight. Steel companies need operations at 50 per cent of capacity (as against 40 per cent a year ago) to make money—because of NRA costs. That's a long climb from where they are now. More trucks were sold in the U. S. in August than in any other August except 1929. Truck sales have been relatively better than passenger cars. ACCUSE MERRIAM WORKERS OF INTIMIDATING EMPLOYEES IN EFFORTS TO GAIN VOTES

PLAY WRITING CONTEST WILL CLOSE JAN. 3

LATVIAN SINGERS COMING

FAMOUS CHOIR TO SING HERE SUNDAY NIGHT

HATFIELD ATTACKS EPIC PLAN AND URGES MERRIAM SUPPORT AT MEETING HERE

Charges that forces behind the gubernatorial candidacy of Frank F. Merriam are resorting to the intimidation of corporation employees to win votes for the Republican candidate were made today by the San Francisco headquarters of Raymond L. Haight, Progressive nominee for governor.

And Haight personally charges that his campaign leaders in several sections have been subjected to threats to force them to withdraw their support from him.

"I have said the supporters of thinking people and swung them to Haight. Merriam threatened to crucify me if I didn't withdraw from this campaign and I have named names," declared Haight.

Haight Supporters Threatened

"Last week my Kern county chairman called me over the telephone to tell me they had threatened to crucify him and his business if he did not withdraw from my campaign.

"I have said that supporters of Frank Merriam tried to buy me. They tried, as well, through my county and district chairmen. Half a dozen of them stand ready to do so today.

And for two weeks they have been trying to buy you, the voters of this state."

Votes Are Checked

From San Francisco comes the charge that Merriam canvassers, in a house-to-house check of voters, are ascertaining the type and place of occupation of all voters who express opposition to the Republican candidate.

The Haight headquarters reports that word of this was brought in voluntarily by voters aroused over such campaign tactics.

Forced to Wear Buttons

Haight leaders in his district also report all employees of one San Francisco bank have been forced to wear Merriam campaign buttons, while the threat has been passed out among the workers for a San Francisco insurance corporation that personnel slashes may be expected if Upton Sinclair is elected.

Southern California employers, according to Haight, have been sent a letter instructing them to propagandize their workers and to "urge them to think soberly of the danger of their jobs and be sure to cast their votes on election day."

"Is that Americanism and does that sound like a free ballot?" demanded Haight.

Sheidler Attacks Merriam

Another attack on Merriam campaign tactics came from George Sheidler, former president of the Young Democrats of California. Howard C. Ellis, Haight campaign manager, quotes the following statement by Sheidler:

"It is my desire to advise you that the biased press attempted to indicate that I favored Merriam. At no time have I favored the election of Governor Merriam, but I am not surprised at the efforts of some of his campaign supporters to use my name in his behalf. It is such tactics which have earned the disdain of right

A fresh opportunity for Orange county play writers to see their work publicly presented was created today through announcement of an Original One-Act Play contest by the Santa Ana Community Players Association.

The contest, which will represent the third in a series inaugurated by the association in 1933, will take place the night of February 21, 1935 in Santa Ana Ebel auditorium, according to Arthur E. Collins, chairman of the new contest. Manuscripts in any number may be entered by any Orange county resident on or before Thursday, January 3, 1935, closing date of the contest. All entries should be sent to Arthur E. Collins, 1636 East Fourth street.

Selection of the four best plays received will be made by a competent committee, with judging on the night of the competition entrusted to an out-of-town trio of drama experts.

Collins today urged the earliest possible submission of manuscripts and publicized the following contest rules:

1. Plays must be of one-act construction and must be strictly original. Adaptations will not be considered.
2. Plays must be submitted on or before Thursday, January 3, 1935.
3. Manuscripts must be signed by a pen name and must be accompanied by an envelope bearing the same pen name, but containing the real name and address of the writer.
4. Manuscripts should be typed, and a duplicate retained by the writer, since all manuscripts entered will be filed by the Santa Ana Community Players association for possible future presentation.
5. Plays must be between 15 and 35 minutes actual playing time.
6. Plays must not have been presented previously before any organization.

The Great Vespers of the Russian Church, once secret ritual of the ancient Russian cathedrals, will be reproduced by the Latvian singers at the First Congregational church next Sunday at 7 p. m. The old cathedral atmosphere will be recreated in the church, it is said.

The Great Vespers of the Russian church, with all the ancient atmosphere and tradition of the once secret ritual of the old Russian cathedrals, will be transplanted to the First Congregational church here next Sunday evening, with the appearance of the Latvian Singers, of Los Angeles.

The setting for the program, scheduled at 7 p. m., will be as completely Russianized as possible, said the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the church. Candle light, costumes, an altar of the old Russian church, and the ancient, authentic Russian church music will be employed to recreate the old cathedral atmosphere. The clergymen will officiate in English, but the choir responses will all be in Russian.

"The presentation of such a service as this," said the Rev. Mr. Schrock, "is possible because of the collapse of the Russian church after the revolution there. Until recent times, an outsider was unable to secure the materials used in the Russian church service. Since the revolution, however, much of the secrecy has been eliminated and the Latvian Singers were able to secure much of the ritual and music that was once the secret possession of the great Russian cathedrals. The presentation Sunday evening will keep as near as possible to the old traditions."

Climaxing a speaking tour of Orange county which started with a breakfast meeting in Anaheim, George J. Hatfield, San Francisco attorney, Republican nominee for lieutenant governor, declared at a meeting last night in Veterans' hall, Santa Ana, that realization of the so-called Epic plan through the election of Upton Sinclair and his followers would mean the gradual crumbling of private industry.

Election of Sinclair and his followers, the speaker said, in every issue he had a new deal which he lauded, from Plutocracy to Communism. Sinclair, he said, has attacked everything which civilization and Christianity stands for. He quoted from Sinclair's writings to illustrate his point.

Trefz lauded Merriam's accomplishments in public life, declaring that his business experience, political and governmental experience and wide knowledge of the needs of the state fitted him better than any other man to have the highest position the people of California have to offer.

Preceding the meeting here last night, a dinner was held at La Casa Trabuco cafe at which Hatfield was the honored guest. Hatfield also spoke at a luncheon meeting of the "Merriam for Governor" club at Laguna Beach.

Merchants Will Close Two Hours On Armistice Day

Merchants in Santa Ana will close their places of business for two hours, from 10:30 to 12:30 p. m., on Armistice Day to permit employees to attend the parade November 12 at Huntington Beach, it was announced today by Phil M. Brown, manager of the Business Men's Association of Santa Ana.

Decision was reached by the board of directors of the association. Brown announced, to follow the same policy which was established last year.

W. L. Lindby was found not guilty on charges of disturbing the peace when he appeared in police court yesterday.

D. C. Dillingham paid a $10 fine and Francis Beawatte paid a $5 fine when they came into police court yesterday on speeding charges.

PRESIDENTS OF MAY CALL FOR COUNTY P. T. A. BIDS ON CITY IN CONFERENCE HALL MONDAY

Prospect that work on Santa Ana's new city hall might start by December 1 was seen today in the summoning of Architect H. C. Wildman and City Auditor Lloyd Banks to Los Angeles to bring back the plans with the approval of PWA officials.

It is possible that a few minor details will have to be ironed out before the final approval is given today, but Wildman and Banks were expecting to have the full sanction of the PWA board before the city council convenes Monday night. In that case, bids will be called for and advertised then, it is expected.

Following an interval of three weeks for the contractors to prepare their estimates, the bids would be received on November 13 and the contract awarded two weeks later. This would make it possible for actual work to start in December.

Because much of the labor for the building will be furnished through the PWA, the erection of the three-story structure at Third and Main streets will probably take six months. It will cost slightly more than $100,000, depending on the rising prices of building materials. A federal loan and grant was received from PWA heads in Washington following the passing of a bond issue and approval of the plans in Los Angeles. The PWA will loan $70,000 and make a grant of $30,000.

Reports from local presidents and a question box. Business of the afternoon included a decision to enter a P. T. A. float in the Armistice Day parade November 12 at Huntington Beach. It also was decided to ask assemblymen to express themselves publicly on the education program of the P. T. A.

HOUSING PROGRAM RADIO TALK TOPIC

Furthering interest and in order to disseminate late information regarding the federal housing program to provide employment and at the same time to bring about better housing conditions for residents of the United States, Fred W. Marlow, Southern California director of the better housing division of the federal housing administration, will speak over radio KFAC from 7:45 until 8:30 o'clock tonight, it was announced today by Frederic W. Sanford, Orange county director. The entire Chautauqua program over KFAC tonight will be given over to a better housing program, Sanford announced. The radio address is in addition to the presentation over KFAC at 7 p. m. tomorrow.

All ailments have traceable causes

Every ache, pain or dis-ease has a reason for being there! It doesn't "just grow" in your body! It has a CAUSE which can be traced by a practitioner specially trained and equipped for such service. It is an advantage to you to be under the care of one who has dedicated his life to tracing the real causes of sickness with ACCURACY and CERTAINTY. Then, when the right treatment is applied direct to the cause, your chances of RESULTS and recovery of health are increased, with a logical saving of time and expense.

MCCORD TELLS INCIDENTS IN FAMOUS GAMES

ORANGE, Oct. 19.—Jack McCord, nationally known football official, was the speaker at the meeting of the Rotary club Thursday when members of the Orange Union High school football squad were the guests of the club. Stewart N. White, football coach of the school, was program chairman. Dick Griffith led yells and the boys were introduced to club members. Art Craft is team captain.

Following greetings extended by J. B. Wilbur, Y. M. C. A. secretary, McCord gave a talk in the course of which he told numerous incidents which had occurred in famous football games and gave sidelights on the characters and lives of famous coaches.

The speaker declared the tendency to make football a business, with gate receipts as the main objective. Coaches play against each other and boys are often put through their paces to make the team successful, at a rate which does not leave the best results in their after lives, he said.

Warning the boys present not to place too much confidence in athletic popularity, McCord pointed out that many star athletes in schools and colleges are placed on pedestals and that after graduation they find to their surprise that promises for their futures made during their athletic careers have been forgotten by those who made them. Courage and determination, needed in life, are taught on athletic fields, the speaker declared.

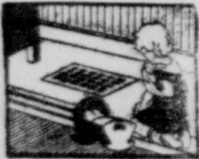

C. H. Robinson, president of the club, announced that ladies' night would be observed November 22. Otto Scharar was introduced as a new member.

DEADLY SNAKES EXHIBITED IN STORE WINDOW

ORANGE, Oct. 19.—Two deadly rattlers are on exhibition in the windows of the S. A. Perkins magazine shop on West Chapman avenue. The snakes are the property of Otto Puchert of Modjeska canyon. One is a very rare variety, a Lucifer rattler and the other is a large red rock rattler.

Puchert has studied habits of snakes for a number of years, the study beginning when he was bitten by a rattlesnake while working in the San Bernardino mountains.

Puchert bears on his forehead a large scar from this bite which he treated himself by pinching the area around it with the thumb nail of his other hand. No suffering in the world can equal that which follows the absorption of rattlesnake poison in the system, the snake expert declares. In the course of handling large numbers of the reptiles since, he states, that he has been bitten 11 times.

Whiskey, Puchert declares, has no beneficial results in counteracting poison injected by rattlesnake fangs. Persons who believe that whiskey has averted such effects, he says, were not bitten by poisonous varieties of snakes. Rattles never strike a slow moving object, Puchert says, and if such a reptile is encountered, slow movement will avert a bite. A major bite, says Puchert, is one when the fangs of the reptile penetrates a vein or artery and this must be treated immediately, and a minor bite is one which penetrates the flesh.

Perkins has 150 small black widow spiders which hatched from a cocoon. These insects are gradually eating each other up as they develop. Perkins has a large black widow spider in another jar with a cocoon about a half-inch long.

"Just for a change," she explained to George.

But at last he said, "The only result I can find in changing is continued dissatisfaction. Let's land on something really good, Wilma. Hills Bros. Coffee, for example, like the McBrides have. Let's use Hills Bros. Coffee from now on and have constant, unvarying coffee-delight plus the real economy that comes from

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

The cares and anxieties of the American farmer sometimes seem insurmountable. Evelyn Harris is a farmer on the shore of the Chesapeake bay. With her husband dead, her farm mortgaged, her children to educate, this dauntless woman faced the depression and won her way. She tells of her experience in "The Barter Lady."

With cash rarely in reach, with debts always pressing, Mrs. Harris relied on her skill at barter to keep her farm going. She traded berries for her daughter's clothes, vegetables for part of their tuition at college, sweet corn and fruit for their books. Whatever she had she traded for the necessities and luxuries which a farmer must buy or do without. She and her eldest son learned the wiles of the middleman, the fellow who gets a commission for handling food at prices sometimes below the cost of production. They tried desperately to get a little cash for their produce. In the end they were almost always forced to barter.

Inch by inch they held off their creditors, got their notes renewed, and kept the farm going. It was a struggle, but it was not all work and no play. There were barn dances and rides and swims, picnics and boating and skating for children home on a holiday.

Her problems are not peculiar to the truck farmers of the Atlantic seaboard. They differ only in minor details from those of the farmers in the cottonlands, the corn belt, the fruit country of the Far West, of all who are trying to make a living from the soil. Mrs. Harris' story of her solution to the farm problem is one which holds a vital human interest for all of us who are concerned and hopeful of finding some way out.

The early history of California revolves around many interesting personalities. One of the most colorful of these is described by George T. Clark in his biography "Leland Stanford."

There are many contradictions in Leland Stanford's career. He disclaimed political pretensions and was elected United States Senator against his will. A country storekeeper, he promoted the greatest railroad project of his time. Raising the fastest horses in the United States, he was never known to bet on a race. No university graduate, he founded the wealthiest university of that day.

This biography presents the life of an enigmatic figure who was outstanding in three distinct fields of human endeavor. It brings much that is new to our knowledge and understanding both of the man Stanford and of the projects inseparably connected with his name. He was the first Republican governor of California, holding the office during the Civil war. He was one of the builders of the Central Pacific railroad and its president for 30 years. In these fields and as founder of Stanford university, Leland Stanford took an active part in the development of California from a raw wilderness to its present maturity.

Particularly welcome is the previously unpublished material relating to early California politics, and to the dealings of the "Big Four"—Stanford, Crocker, Huntington and Hopkins—who made possible the completion of the first transcontinental railroad against seemingly overwhelming physical and financial obstacles. The history of Leland Stanford's active years reflects closely the history of California from the mining camp days of the "forties" to the full-statured commonwealth which greeted the end of the century.

There is a general interest in the personal characteristics of famous people. In "Forty-two years in the White House," Irwin H. Hoover tells of the daily lives of ten presidents and their wives from Benjamin Harrison to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

As chief usher of the White House, Irwin H. (Ike) Hoover is the only man who lived in daily contact with them all. He saw the Hoover simplicity of the Harrisons replaced by the lavish entertainments of the Cleveland. He shared the tragedy of McKinley's term and survived the nerve-racking scramble of Theodore Roosevelt's boisterous administration. He shows us a new Taft, far different from the genial fat man of legend. He observed the serious Wilson putting golf and orchids before the most pressing affairs of state, and gives the facts about Harding's notorious "Poker Cabinet." He saw tight-lipped Coolidge fly into terrible rages over trifles and watched over Hoover's four worried years. He describes the personalities and ambitions of the first ladies of the land and passes in review the famous guests from Lindbergh and Queen Marie to Will Rogers and the Prince of Wales.

Irwin Hoover planned to retire in 1935 and publish his reminiscences. At the time of his death he had carried his story through the Taft administration. The rest of the story was in copious notes. He has not only written an amazing human document but has made some startling historical revelations. All that took place in the White House Ike Hoover saw; all that he saw he jotted down in his private notebooks. Had Samuel Pepys been chief usher to ten presidents, he might have written just such a book as this.

PEACH COCKTAIL

Drain 2 cups Del Monte sliced peaches. To 1/2 cup of peach syrup add juice of half an orange, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice and 1 or 2 tablespoons of powdered sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, pour over peaches and chill thoroughly. Then arrange this in small sherbet glasses and garnish with a maraschino cherry or 2 crystallized or fresh mint leaves.

BAKED PEACHES

Butter a pudding dish and cover with a layer of Del Monte sliced peaches. Sprinkle with brown or maple sugar, generous bits of butter and bread or cracker crumbs. Shortening may be used instead of butter if one teaspoon salt is added. Repeat layers, making last one crumbs and butter. Pour over all 1/2 cup peach syrup. Bake 40 minutes at 350 degrees F. For 1 can peaches (about 2 cups) use 1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup sugar and 1 cup crumbs.

PEACHES AND S. POTATOES

Parboil medium sized sweet potatoes. When slightly tender cut in slices lengthwise and drain thoroughly. Drain 2 cups Del Monte sliced peaches, reserving syrup. Melt butter in casserole to thoroughly grease bottom and sides. Put in a layer of sweet potatoes and sprinkle lightly with brown sugar. Repeat until all have been used, sprinkling top layer of sugar lightly with cinnamon. Add 1/4 cup hot syrup from peaches in which 1 tablespoon butter has been melted and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until tender. Cover with a layer of marshmallows and brown just before serving.

PEACH AND COCONUT SALAD

Mix 2 cups of well drained Del Monte sliced peaches with 1-2 cup of shredded coconut. Sprinkle with 1 tablespoon of lemon juice and serve with a French dressing made of 1/4 cup orange juice, 1/4 cup olive oil, 2-4 teaspoon salt and 1-2 teaspoon paprika, all shaken up together. Arrange on inside leaves of lettuce, sprinkle with coconut and dot with current jelly.

Operetta Leads
Juanita Marlborough and Robert Heath, high 8th graders, have been selected for the leading roles of "An Old Spanish Custom" the operetta to be given later in the fall. The students who are familiar with the story are enthusiastic about this year's selection, which promises to be colorful, romantic, humorous, and dramatic. The following cast, in addition to large choruses used for the fiesta scenes, has been working on the operetta: Katherine Darling, Mildred Smith; Beatrice Thorne, Du Verne Lambert; Stanley Darling, Kit's brother, Milton Eliza; Wilhelmina Day, Juanita Marlborough; Don Jose, Robert Heath; Silas Day, Harold Hunsacker; Patrick Murphy, Jack Nelson; Maggie Murphy, Pat's wife, Josephine Birdsell.

Girl Reserves
Since Miss Mary Alice Porter, Girl Reserve advisor, talked with the girls in connection with Y. W. C. A. activities, 25 new members from the 7th grades have enrolled. The 8th graders have made a commendable start under the direction of Miss Flippin and Miss Pur-

ley. Miss Carnelle Swain is director of the ninth grade girls, and their plans are offering many events for the year. The purpose of this organization is to fulfill the interests of all girls of junior high school age.

The high nines in Miss Lota Rhythe's English class have produced some interesting diagrams and drawings of castle halls, tournaments, and many such projects during their study of Ivanhoe. They are completing notebooks in connection with this study.

Library Activities
Lathrop Library is a veritable bee hive these days. The low 7th grade classes have completed their general library instructions on how and where to find books and reference material; and now they have joined the throng in a concentrated effort to read more and better books. Many of the new students have made application to become members of the Junior Literary club, which is further proof that they are ambitious readers. Miss Lota Rhythe and Miss Leona Calkins are sponsors of that organization.

Girls' Athletics
Girls' P. E. classes have made a fine start on their class work and in the noon games. The outstanding teams from regular classes are selected to take part in the noon interclass tournaments and considerable enthusiasm is evident in these contests. The following teams are particularly prominent at the present time: the low 9 O. K. team; the high 9 "professionals"; the low 9 Snail Team; the low 8 Peggys, and the low 8 Pylil Dodgers.

One girl is appointed in each class section to assist Miss Rideout in conducting various activities. These captains are as follows: Loyce Julian, low 9; Lucille Delme, low 9; Mary Jane Gross, high 9; Dorothy Henderson, low 8; Florence Eastman, low 8; Nona Rogers, low 8; Barbara Kemper, low 8; Janet Harwood, high 8; Alice Manos, high 8; Dawn Hunting, high 8; Mary Naomi McKee, low 8, and Ann Ulseth, low 9.

Iris Crawford is the new equipment manager. This position requires a special letter and rates 200 points.

Projects Worked Out
A project has been worked out in L8-2 English class, which has just completed the study of Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper." Each pupil prepared for the bulletin boards a special project, among them original poems, cartoons, colored sketches, posters and pen and ink sketches illustrating characters or scenes. Other students made scrapbooks of pictures depicting scenes in and about London, while still others wrote papers of historical research, including character sketches of Henry VIII and Edward VI. Outstanding in this collection are drawings of Mark Twain, Prince Edward as a baby, King Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn, Jane Dudley, and Queen Elizabeth.

Girl Reserves
The first meeting of L-9 Girl Reserves was held in room 206. Officers elected were Hazel Stewart, president; Elizabeth Winbiller, vice-president; Jacqueline Briggs, Treasurer; Shelena McBurney, reporter; Jerry Farmer, song leader. The sponsors are Miss Paxton and Miss Pines.

New Club Organized
A Garden club, the purpose of which is to keep the school grounds clean, was organized recently at Willard. Meetings will be held Tuesdays at 2:45 p. m. in room 213. Membership is open to both boys and girls. Marion Clark is president; Mildred Fromm, vice-president; Mary Carey, secretary; Juanita Jones, reporter; Dorothy Davis, treasurer; Maybelle DuBois, sergeant at arms and Miss Plumb, sponsor.

"Scores of business managements in all parts of the country are merely waiting for some kind of signal that may reflect

"CONSTITUTION DAY"

According to the Christian Century, the forces behind the recent observance of Constitution Day have been revealed in a pamphlet written by one Cal Lewis, a publicity agent in New York. This man boasts that the mechanics of the campaign was "one of the outstanding in the annals of American propaganda."

The National Committee was made up of representatives of a number of patriotic societies, the Taxpayers' League, the National Association of Manufacturers, and the Crusaders; but the bills, says Mr. Lewis, were paid by individuals. Only two are named. One of them is William H. Stayton, the same gentleman who was Mr. DuPont's agent in the association for the repeal of the prohibition amendment, and who is now the secretary of Mr. DuPont's American Liberty League.

Certainly no group in this country has done more to drag the constitution in the dust than this very group which was the spear-head of the attack upon the 18th amendment, and which brought about a great deal of the flaunting of all laws, as well as the constitution. Certainly there should be more of an attempt at consistency made by these men than they have evidenced in these two movements, which are diametrically opposed to each other.

There can be no objection to setting aside a day for honoring the American constitution; but we have a right to object to such a project when the primary purpose is to bolster up the forces of reaction. This dragging the constitution down to the level of party strifes and reactionary movements ought to be severely condemned.

No doubt, many good people were dragged into becoming the tools of these self-appointed defenders of the constitution to perpetuate their own selfish schemes.

No less an authority than Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes of the Supreme Court of the United States made a statement recently that "we are under a constitution, but the constitution is what the judges say it is."

Chief Justice Taney in the Dred Scott case interpreted the constitution to uphold slavery. Chief Justice Hughes in the Mackintosh case interpreted the constitution as setting the individual conscience above the enactments of the state.

When any group of men presume to monopolize the constitution as the unalterable basis for their own political or economic beliefs or practices, we, at least, have the right to know who they are, and what has been and is their reputation. We are not ready to have William H. Stayton interpret the constitution for us, and to direct us to bow before his interpretation of it.

STRANGE COLLECTING FOIBLES

There are collectors of rare books, rare coins, rare stamps, rare paintings and rare everything. Many of the collections made have no intrinsic merit or value, but there are people who get interested in certain things and are willing to spend fortunes to get a collection of them.

The strangest collections, however, have just come to our attention. A certain army officer collected 22,000 match boxes of various designs during his life time. We did not know that such a wide assortment existed in the world, but evidently they can be found by one who is willing to give his time and money in the search for them.

It has recently been found that a French banker has been collecting the bands that are wrapped around cigars. In the course of 50 years he has collected 63,000 different brands. His heirs sold them for 20 francs—a little over a dollar. One of the heirs wished that the cigars have been saved, for 63,000 good cigars would have given some satisfaction, and certainly a larger money return.

But the army officer and the French banker had a good time getting their collections together. We can imagine they got great pleasure showing their collections to their friends.

There was about them something very personal and individualistic; there was a sense of conquest in a field never before entered into by any other, and of possessing something that no one else had ever possessed.

Acquisitiveness is not only a desire to possess money, or power, or public esteem. Match boxes and cigar bands may give the same thrill as any of these.

In one way or another we all are affected the same way as this army officer and this French banker. Our hobby is different, but the sense of acquiring is the same. What a strange product human nature is, and for what baubles do we spend our time and money.

GERMANY AND THE GOLD STANDARD

Germany is one of the few countries of the world which still adheres to the gold standard. In view of the fact that its gold reserve is very small, to remain on the gold standard it has had to resort to a system of trade and exchange control which has created a peculiar situation.

There is no free exchange of goods between Germany and the outside world. Only necessary raw material is permitted to enter the country, and the balance of trade is affected only by a system of foreign credits or by bills of exchange received from the export of manufactured products. No gold is permitted to leave the country.

This is the only way that Germany can maintain the gold value of the Reichsmark. But this cannot continue in the way in which that parity has been maintained.

Germany is not paying its bills for goods imported from abroad. There are large unpaid balances in France and Holland, which if not paid in goods cannot be paid at all. According to a report from England, Germany owes English producers over 500,000,000 Reichsmarks.

With its limited gold supply, these bills cannot be paid in gold. And it is evident that Germany's creditors are not willing to take their pay in goods of German manufacture.

What will happen to Germany's fiscal situation unless an even balance of trade is maintained is very evident. Germany will have to go through another period of monetary deflation such as took place in 1922.

The financial situation is none too hopeful for Germany, and what the effect will be upon the Hitler rule is no uncertainty. Germany cannot exist independent of the outside world. Hitler's policies have alienated the outside world. These policies will have to be altered, or Hitler is done for. There is no alternative.

"MICKEY" COCHRANE REWARDED AND HONORED

Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane, catcher-manager of the Detroit Tigers, has received some balm to heal the painful memories of the loss of the World Series to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Mickey," it will be recalled, was the former star catcher for Connie Mack's Athletics, who was bought by the Detroit Tigers last winter, and appointed manager. Under his direction, the team responded by winning the pennant, which established Cochrane as an excellent pilot in his first year at that position.

Detroit suffered a decisive beating in the deciding game of the seven-game series, and besides the difference between the "cut" received by the players of the winning and losing sides, there was the mental distress, of course, for the manager.

Now along comes the Detroit Tiger owner, however, and assuages the pain somewhat by the application of a $10,000 bonus for the youthful leader, who led Detroit to its first pennant in 25 years.

The next day Cochrane is named as the most valuable player in the American league for the second time since 1928. In winning this honor, he defeated his second baseman, Charley Gehringer, by two votes. Other close contestants were "Lefty" Gomez and "Schoolboy" Rowe, the latter another Tiger.

Even a loser gets some honors now and then, and we can imagine "Mickey" can enjoy the winter fairly well, and possibly forget the World Series, in planning for next year's team.

Palomar's New Fame

Oakland Tribune

As mountains go, Palomar is not green. It rises 6126 feet above the valleys of Cleveland National Forest and has been accepted as no more than a rugged and imposing bit of the landscape.

Now Palomar, about 50 miles northeast of San Diego, is to be famous as the home of the world's largest telescope. For several years astronomers have been studying the map of the United States for a new observatory site. According to the National Geographic Society, they chose Palomar because it is far enough from the desert on the east and the Pacific Ocean on the west to give promise of atmospheric conditions favorable for their studies.

Before the gold-hungry hordes of "Forty-Niners" moved their caravans across the western plains and through the passes of the Rockies, Palomar was a favored hunting ground among the Indians of the region. In 1831, Palomar was visited by a white man named Warner. He settled near its slopes, became a naturalized Mexican citizen—California then was Mexican—and a grant of land, including Palomar and its environs was made to him by the Mexican Government. From Warner, the Warner Hot Springs near Palomar got their name.

The summit of Palomar is blanketed with a thick growth of timber—cedars, spruces, pines and black oak, in whose shade each year thousands of wanderlusts hike and ride horseback over narrow, tortuous trails. Many pitch their camps in the brisk air of the summit. Through openings in the thick forest, mountain climbers are rewarded for their fatiguing trek by spectacular views of the country for miles around. Many miles of San Diego County, a veritable flower and vegetable garden, are at their feet. In some places one's viewpoint is atop a ridge whose sides tumble in steep grass-covered slopes for thousands of feet to the valleys below.

The 200-inch telescope mirror to be placed on Palomar will be twice the diameter of the mirror at Mount Wilson (California) Observatory—at present the largest in the world—which has made possible many notable contributions to astronomy. The first attempt to cast the great glass disc for the mirror occurred in the spring of 1934 at Corning, New York. The pouring constituted one of the outstanding scientific feats of the year and was witnessed by thousands of scientists and laymen.

But the huge glass lens was found to have a slight imperfection, so plans have been made to pour a new one. When completed, the mirror will weigh 18 tons, will reveal billions more stars than can be reflected by the Mount Wilson mirror, and will pierce space to thirty times the distance now possible.

Damming The Mississippi

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

The Mississippi Valley Committee has given Secretary Locke its recommendations for future control and development of the Mississippi river, and while the report has not yet been made public it is understood in Washington that it calls for a vast system of dams up and down the whole length and breadth of the Mississippi valley.

If this is correct, there is foreshadowed one of the most remarkable internal developments ever undertaken by any nation.

The dams, it is said, would be designed primarily for flood control. Secondly, however, they would provide enormous quantities of electric power, make possible the irrigation of vast stretches of now arid land, and aid navigation up and down the whole river network.

What is now being done in the Tennessee river valley would be duplicated in the valleys of the Mississippi's other tributaries.

It will be interesting to see how much of a start the administration proposes to make on this stupendous project.

YE OLDE SMITHY

Beneath the spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stood,
The smith a mighty man was he
While business still was good,
And everybody will agree,
He did the best he could.

But now that horses have gone out—
Though still there are a few—
The smith has had to look about
For something else to do;
For any man who's large and stout
Must toll, like me and you.

So, lacking horses any more
With footgear to supply,
He sets this sign outside his door:
"Tea, Sandwiches and Pie;
Step in and hear the bellows roar;
Don't pass the old place by."

Perhaps you'll see an ancient plow
While in the place you stop;
Perhaps the blacksmith's sooty brow
He now and then will mop.
But does he run a smithy now?
No, it's a curio shop.

DIRTY CRACK

An anti-administration friend of ours says that the reason the grass isn't growing in the streets is that there are so many people wearing it out looking for jobs.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

THE FARMER AND THE WORLD

As the New Deal enters its second phase of refinement and adjustment in the light of the experience of its operation to date, fundamental shifts in its policies regarding agriculture will, I am convinced become increasingly imperative.

I am convinced that the crop control aspect of the agricultural policy will become less and less regarded as desirable beyond drastic emergency uses respecting certain products.

And I am convinced that the whole problem of foreign trade relations will loom larger and larger as having vital relation to the farmer's future.

In May, June and July of 1933, we sold abroad some 1,800,000 bales of cotton.

In May, June and July of 1934, we sold abroad only about 1,000,000 bales.

The new crop will probably find foreign markets for not more than 500,000 bales.

This is not a temporary condition that we may treat lightly. Permitted to proceed unhindered this tendency will wreck the economic South.

This tendency is, to a marked degree, a result of certain policies into which we have drifted alike under the Republicans and under the Democrats.

We have not encouraged imports of goods and raw materials. We have discouraged imports by our tariff policies. We have discouraged imports by depreciating our currency. And we have encouraged other countries to speed up their agricultural production by our forced raising of prices and by our own radical reduction of crop production.

We are daily drawing nearer and nearer to the permanent loss of many foreign markets for our agricultural surplus. Some of this loss is due to factors beyond our control. But part of it lies at the door of our own shortsightedness.

WORRY

DEAR CHILDREN: Worrying is the most useless thing we do. It is one way of eating oneself.

Nothing comes of it but more worry, a headache, an ailing stomach, and a terrible feeling of woe. Even the sunshine doesn't brighten the sky. The dog wags his tail and licks our hands in vain. We can't be bothered with such little things as sunshine and little dog friends when we have a good fat worry to gnaw. So we gnaw and we fret and we droop. We are not very cheerful objects to look at, nor very pleasant to speak to, and our friends wish we would go away and stay away until we got over it.

The worst thing about worry is that it is sheer waste. I knew a girl who lays awake all night long worrying about the history lesson for the next day. The teacher had given the class a whole chapter for study and the poor girl couldn't make head or tail of it. So she lay there worrying and weeping. When she got to school the next day the history teacher was absent. She had gone on a vacation. The class never did have that chapter to learn. And all that worry wasted. One whole night's sleep, one whole night of suffering. No lesson is worth that.

Most of the things you worry about are like that. They never materialize. The thing that did happen was quite different from what you expected and the worry was all in the wrong place. Then why worry?

If you can do anything about the matter do it. Then there is nothing to worry about. If you can't do anything about it there is no good in worrying. Let it go at that. It won't be as bad as you think it is going to be. Nothing ever is. It will be different, changed about, something you never thought about. Then why worry about what you know nothing about and CAN'T HELP IF YOU DO.

I know that it is easy for me to say all this. It is not easy for you to control your thinking and cast out worry. The best way to manage is to prepare for the job you have in hand. Keep up your work. Hand it in on time. Do your best whatever you do. If you are well prepared, if you have done all you could do, you will feel confident and sure and that is what kills worry.

Worry is fear gone to seed, very fine seed that is sowing itself into every fiber of your mind. Faith, another name for sureness, kills fear, drives out worry. You can't worry about things you are sure about. You can plan to do something to bring them your way and when you can plan and work you never worry.

What starts a lot of this worry is neglect of work. You don't do your home work, you skip a class, you forget a note book. The first thing you know you have piled up back work, a test is coming and you begin to worry. Keep up your work, do it day by day and most of the trouble will vanish.

Worry about examinations will not trouble you when you know your work. Prepare daily lessons, do your reviews, go over your notes, and you can't fail. When you can't fail, you can't worry.

Yours, A. P.
